Yearbook of

FONTBONNE COLLEGE

St. Louis, Mo.
Foreword

The Staff, in offering this, the first volume of The Log, has aimed to present a true and vivid picture of the events of a year memorable for an advance in scholastic and social activities, with the hope that the loyalty, affection, and reverence inspired by Alma Mater will continue a living and vital force with those who are leaving the ideal atmosphere of Fontbonne.
Dedication

To dear Reverend Mother Agnes Rossiter, Superior General of the Sisters of St. Joseph, whose zeal and effort, unselfish spirit of prayer and courageous endurance have made Fontbonne a reality, this first volume of The Log is gratefully dedicated.
"Not walls, but subjects' love
Do to a prince the strongest castle prove."
—Goffe.
"And in the thickest covert of that shade
There was a pleasant arbor."
—Spenser.
"The hawthorn bush, with seat beneath the shade."

—Goldsmith.
"Sweet flower, thou tell'st low hearts
As pure and tender as thy leaf."
—Percival.

The Modern Girl

whether swinging a tennis racquet, receiving guests at a formal dance, or writing term papers for philosophy or sociology, is always graciously competent, admiringly self-possessed, representing in a worthy while way her sex, her home, her school. As such, the modern girl has been selected as the theme of The Log, and as such she is truly symbolic of the matchless sports, the delightful social functions, the zest for learning at Fontbonne.

Mother Irene

There is something very precious,
Something rare beyond all measure.
That memories bring back to us
Among the things we treasure.

It's the time we spent in learning
At Fontbonne for hours and a day.
Yes, the time we spent in learning
And the time we spent in play.

The things we learned we may forget,
Remember some we might;
But we'll care most for a person
Who always put us aright.

We'll gather 'round our fireplace
On a rainy or sunny day,
And think about a dear one's face
And we'll love her along life's way.

Our History

"Echoes of 304 Ryan Hall"

"We still have fifteen minutes before Anatomy, why the hurry?"
"All right, move over."
"Honestly, doesn't it seem as if it were just yesterday that we were Freshmen?"
"Yes, and next year we will be Seniors and then—Oh, I hate to think about it!"
"So do I—we've had such good times and they've all flown by. Remember that first Prom in our Freshman year, and the first Fathers' Club basketball tournament?"
"We lost that tournament, didn't we, but we walked away with the swimming meet."

"Oh, yes, remember Georgia Magill's crawl?"

"And the fun we had in 'Midsummer Night's Dream' practices. That was our most exciting year—getting down to College Level and being initiated. Remember that initiation?"

"Remember it? My dear girl, I carried memories of it around with me for some time."

"And our Sophomore year—what do you all remember about that?"

"That was another big year, but let us not forget the poignant memories of Frosh English."

"Whewh, no! Those dear old Daily Theme Eyes!"
"Generally needed an optometrist!"

"And then suddenly we were Sophs. That was when Abie McPartlin was president, and we gave that informal Thanksgiving dance that everybody raved about."

"And we started hockey that year."

"Yes, and after suddenly discovering that Ann could play basketball we won the cup in one of those bloody tournaments!"

"And we put on 'As You Like It' with the Freshies that year."

"And entertained the Seniors down at the Castilla. You know we really did a lot that year."

"Yes, all those cake sales, and we put Fontbonne on the Catholic Book of the Month Club."

"But I still contend that the biggest thing we ever did was this year's Junior Prom!"

"But think of it—we only have a little over a year of college life now. I wonder what we will do with it?"

"Perhaps The Log of 1930 which we are going to edit will have all our activities recorded."

"Let the future take care of itself and let us go to class—we're late now."

"Uninitiated Freshmen"

It is generally known that we Sephs have labored under a terrible handicap ever since we entered Fontbonne as "Freshies." The fact is—we have never been initiated. Not once! Not even half way! You can see at a glance or two in what a precarious situation we were placed. In spite of everything we have gone ahead, fighting our way forward, winning basketball games, getting "A's", letting our hair grow—and we found time for other things, too.

Second semester student: Virginia McCarthy
After having adapted ourselves to the new and strange mysteries of "College level," we decided to "break-down" as it has been called, and entertain. Our initial efforts brought forth an informal tea which was given at Hotel Chase, February 11, 1928. The remainder of the year was spent in quietly participating in all activities as good Freshmen should. Having safely crossed the sea of exams, the class of '31 gladly relinquished the title of "uninitiated Freshies" and departed for a well earned vacation.

And this our Sophomore year has fulfilled all our expectations. Were we not proud to open the social season at Fontbonne with our Thanksgiving dance? But our greatest achievement was the defeat of our sister-class, the Seniors, in the annual Fathers' Club basketball tournament.

Time elapses, bringing with it its pleasures and sorrows, but with it the Sophs struggle on with high ambitions and prospects for new fields to conquer.

The Athletic Association, a very enthusiastic organization, controls all the college sports. There are no requirements for membership, but anyone wishing to participate in a contest must be a member of the club.

All the awards for athletics are provided by this organization except the intramural cup which the Fathers’ Club presents.
Hockey

Hockey is becoming a popular sport at Fontbonne but the season for this game is too short to admit of heated contests. This year the final game was played November 22, between the College and the Academy, the score a tie, 8-8.

The students who made the College team are: Ruth McDonald, Lucille McDonald, Bernice Sommer, Helisy Galeski, Treza Sekardi, Eugenia Salel, Eleanor Reynolds, Katherine Tackaberry, Virginia McGrath and Mary Louise Crimmins.
Basketball

The past basketball season was an intensely interesting one at Fontbonne. Although no interscholastic games were played, an unusual amount of skill was displayed at all of the intramural tilts.

Outstanding, both for its technique and sportsmanship, was the College team, picked by Marie Hanss, athletic director, at the close of the season.

“Buzz” Reilly, the senior member, was the stumbling block for many an erstwhile guard with her fast and unusual forwarding during all four years on the team.

Ann Murphy was the “sure-shot” forward for the juniors. When Ann got the ball, it usually meant a basket. This is her second year on the team.

Ruth McDonald, freshman, is an outstanding eager, and basketball enthusiasts expect a lot from Ruth as a fast worker next year.

“Sis” Noble, a junior guard, always played her part of the game and played it well. This is the third year “Sis” has made the team.

Carroll Ridlon, sophomore guard, plays a very scientific game. She was voted the most valuable player in the College.

Bernice Sommer, another soph guard, is serving her second year on the College team and is an all-around good basketeer.

Swimming

To our unsophisticated freshmen is awarded the honor and glory of being the best fish at Fontbonne, having won the annual swimming meet by a ten-point lead over the senior teams. Mary Louise Crimmins, freshman, was the only student to receive her swimming letter for which ten points were necessary.

Tennis

Tennis can be played by everyone, but everyone cannot be a champion. Since May, 1928, Dolores Boedeker, '31, has held that title at Fontbonne and "Buzz" Reilly, runner-up. The "hot-stove league" is predicting that each of these students will defend her title again in the 1929 tournament.

The splendidly equipped courts which the Fontbonne Fathers' Club have laid out on the campus, have made this sport possible at Fontbonne.

The Student Association, of which every student is a member, is Fontbonne's largest organization. It sponsors all the activities of the school, and is second in importance only to the Student Council, which regulates student participation in the government of the college.

This group is composed of fourteen members, the president of the College Association, the president and an elected representative of each class, and the presidents of the various organizations. The Student Council directs all student activities, and conducts and passes on the arrangements for important affairs, such as College Day and May Day.

Fonbonne’s Press Club sponsors the publication activities of the College. Many of its members assist in the editing of the monthly campus paper, The Font, which is in charge of the class of Journalism. The requirement for membership is the ability to “break into print,” either in a local newspaper or The Font. The Press Club invites prominent newspaper men to address the members at intervals, and last year closed its season with a luncheon on Founder’s Day, April 14.
Dramatic Club

MARY BELLE McCOOLE .................... President
DOROTHY GORMAN ......................... Vice-President
MARY McNARY ..................... Secretary

A name to this club means nothing because, since its organization in 1925, it has had two names, "Ye Merrie Masquers" and "Junior Players," and this year it is nameless.

But nevertheless all its productions have been brilliant successes, splendidly directed by Mrs. O. A. Wall, Jr., instructor of Dramatic Art at Fontbonne. The most memorable of the club's offerings was Shakespeare's "Midsummer Night's Dream," given in June, 1927. This year the members of the club assisted in a most unique attraction, "Living Pictures," which portrayed many of the famous characters of the Old and New Testaments.
The Agnes Gonzaga Education Club is Fontbonne's newest and most active organization, being established in November, 1928. The aim of the club is to create and promote a vital interest in the many problems of education facing the world today. The name, Agnes Gonzaga, was chosen by the members in honor of Reverend Mother Agnes Gonzaga, former Superior-General of the Sisters of St. Joseph, and an ardent promoter in the field of modern education.

The activities of this organization include the bi-monthly meetings at which either a group of the members discuss current problems, or a local
The speaker addresses the assembly. The speakers of this year were: Rev. W. S. McGucken, S.J.; Rev. McCarthy, S.J.; Mr. Quinn, St. Louis Board of Education; Rev. A. M. Schwitalla, S.J.; and Dr. J. D. Eliff.
Religious Activities

Sodality of the Blessed Virgin

Devotion to Our Lady ranks high among the spiritual loyalties of the college students, who manifest it through the great activity of their sodality, whose organization is based on Father Daniel Lord’s plans. During the past year the sodality has inaugurated the public recitation of the rosary daily, and a monthly communion day, observed on the First Friday of each month in the college chapel.
C. S. M. C.

Cecil Hoerr .................. President
Ellen Delisle .................. Vice-President
Eleanor Riley .................. Secretary
Mary Angela Boyer .................. Treasurer

Closely related to the Fenthalenne Sodality is the college unit of the Catholic Students' Mission Crusade. During the past year this organization has been very active in raising funds for the home and foreign missions by means of raffles and a luncheon.

Besides financial activities, the C. S. M. C. has inaugurated at its regular meetings, interesting discussions of articles which have appeared in the current mission magazines.
The Glee Club has always been prominent in school activities, singing in student entertainments, C. S. M. C. programs, and in general, furnishing the music for most presentations at Fontbonne.

Its largest undertaking was the musical, “My Maid on the Bamboo Screen,” in 1927. This year the Glee Club held a reception for the new members at a tea given in the gymnasium, and in April some of the members sang for the “Living Pictures.”
In June, 1929, the Fontbonne College Alumnae Association will celebrate the third anniversary of its organization, and will initiate the third class of graduates of Fontbonne into the association.

In its few years of existence this organization has accomplished many things. Among these are the framing and adoption of a constitution, and the entrance into full membership in the I. F. C. A. The Log staff, speaking from experience, is assured that their future sisters know how to entertain seniors at supper dances.
May Day

The annual May Day festivities in honor of Our Lady were held on May 23. Mary Aloysia Knapp, chosen by the student body to preside at the fete, was crowned May Queen by Corinne Dewes, president of the College Association, the ceremonies being held in the College auditorium.

Following the processional around the campus, Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament was given in the chapel, after the crowning of the statue of the Blessed Virgin.

The students who attended the May Queen as maids of honor are: Loretto Hennelly, senior, first maid; Ruth Riley, junior, second maid; Treza Sekardi, sophomore, third maid; Frances Moran, freshman, fourth maid.
St. Louis U. Conclave Prom

The third time was the charm for Fontbonne, for in 1928 Agnes Collins, our representative to the Conclave Promenade at St. Louis University, was chosen by the Billikens to reign in their court for one year as the Queen of Love and Beauty.

This year, Anne Murphy, a member of the junior class, served as Fontbonne's maid at the coronation, held annually in the University Gymnasium.
The Junior Prom

Palm trees and orange groves, strikingly contrasted to the softly falling snow without, sheltered the brilliant, youthful crowd at the third Junior Promenade at Fontbonne the evening of February 9, 1929.

The dance is ended, but for the class of '29, the memory lingers on. Memories of its last formal in their honor; memories of beautiful souvenirs; and lastly, memories of the grandest time they had ever had.
Fontbonne

Fontbonne—clear fountain jets—red granite walls—
   A cross against a cloudy sky—green grass—
Ascending steps—St. Joseph there—white halls—
   And marble columns fair that shine like glass—
Quick laughter—chintz cushions—and colored smocks—
   A ringing voice—clear tones—the golden seal—
A basketball—the friendships rare—bright frocks—
   Light-hearted comradeship that students feel.

But memories throng with swiftly hurrying feet
   To gather where light streams thru amber panes,
Where marble altars raise their spires to meet
   The King descending through the angels' lanes.
Through coming years that memory will not die—
   Fontbonne will raise her cross against the sky.

—E. R. '32.

What Five Years Did

"Well, hello, Ibbv. What are you doing in St. Louis?"

"Business and pleasure. Mary. I received an invitation to Naomi’s wedding and you ought to know I never turn down an invitation. As to business, I’m going to close a deal for my firm. In case you don’t know, I’m in the aeroplane game."

"By the way, Mary, how are all the girls in St. Louis?"

"Just fine. I see Buzz quite often. She is the society editor on the Post-Dispatch."

"You don’t mean it? And is Corinne working?"

"Yes, she is assistant technician at St. John’s. Do you hear from Mary Kyely often?"

"I stopped in Jeff City on my way down, hoping Mary would come on to Naomi’s wedding, but she couldn’t get off."

"Is she working?"

"She teaches Latin in the Jeff City High School."

"Well, that’s fine. Say, Agnes, before you leave St. Louis, be sure you see Mil. Her home is beautiful and she has the dearest little boy."

"Oh! boy, I won’t miss that. How is your pal, Loretto?"

"Just fine. She is out of town at present, traveling with the Metropolitan Circuit. I had a letter from her yesterday, written in New York, and she told me she ran across Al Igoe out there."

"Alice Igoe? What on earth is she doing in New York?"

"I don’t know, exactly, but I think it is some kind of social service work."

"Ibbv, what has become of Dotty?"

"The last I heard, she was in France preparing to get her Ph. D. You know that girl is a marvel. I heard she is coming back to St. Louis to take over the Language Department at Fontbonne."
"Say, Mary, I have to get a dress for this swell wedding. Can you recommend a good dress shop?"

"I certainly can. There is a lovely place on Lindell and Kingshighway called the F. C. Shop, and you will be surprised when I tell you who owns it."

"I couldn't guess in a hundred years."

"Marie Freudenstein and Agnes Collins. Marie designs the dresses and Agnes models them. Their prices are very reasonable."

"Well, I certainly will drive right down. Thanks a lot, Mary."

"Drop in to see me before you go back, Ibby."

"Where are you now?"

"Still with the Bell Telephone Co. at Grand. I'll see you at the church tomorrow. goodbye."

CURIOUS PEOPLE ARE NUMEROUS

Inquisitive: "Do you live in the city?"
Boarder: "Yes."
Inquisitive: "Why do you board?"
Boarder: "To save car fare."

THE RESULT OF A THESIS

B. R.: "Is Mary's major finished?"
L. H.: "No, silly; he is still a private."

AN AUTHORITY

Mary F. would like to leave this bit of worth-while advice to any student of Fontbonne who may enter the English history class in years to come. She says: "If, at the time of an exam you cannot answer the questions, enclose a note with your paper worded in this way:

"Dear Professor: The questions you have asked I haven't got in my notes because I wasn't here that day so I told you about the way King Charles escaped disguised as a woman.

"Yours truly?""
Anne College says that in her science class even the equations are unbalanced.

AT THANKSGIVING DANCE

First Freshie: "How long does one dance usually last?"
Second Freshie: "It depends upon whom you're dancing with."

Prof.: "Carlyle said it was a miracle to his horse every time he paid at a toll gate."
Student: "Well, he was a Scotchman."

WITH APOLOGIES TO OUR DEAN

Sing a song of boarders,
Campused one and all,
The lights they kept a-burning,
Shone out into the hall.

It has been discovered that Anatomy is one class in which the students can't cut up too much.
