

Career Opportunities for Majors in Health Education & Promotion

Students who graduate with a Bachelor of Science in Health Education and Promotion may be eligible to sit for the Certified Health Education Specialist (CHES) credential exam.

A Sample of Related Occupations (some may require advanced degrees/training)

Adult or Continuing Educator	Consultant	Non-profit Director
Certified Diabetes Educator	Curriculum Coordinator	Parent Educator
Child Development Specialist	Education Coordinator	Patient Health Information Manager
Clinical Instructor	Family Life Educator	Professor
Clinical Nurse Educator	Health Educator	Public Health Educator
Community Health Coordinator / Worker	Health Promotion Specialist	Program Planner / Implementer
Community Program Director	Marketer	Social & Community Service Manager

Types of Employers

Behavioral Health Facilities	Hospitals	Private Businesses
Colleges and Universities	Information Systems Vendors	Professional Associations & Councils
Community Centers / Organizations	Insurance Companies	Professional Schools
Consumer Products Companies	Long-term Health Care Facilities	Publishers:
Federal Education Agencies	Marketing Companies	Textbooks, Magazines, Books, Internet
Government Agencies:	Non-profit Agencies	Rehabilitation Centers
Local, State, Federal	Peace Corps	Research & Development Centers
Health Care Facilities	Pharmaceutical Companies	Schools Abroad
Home Health Care Providers	Physician Offices	United Way Agencies

Additional Information on Major

Please see Academic Department web site:

<http://www.fontbonne.edu/academics/undergraduate/departments/family-and-consumer-science/health-education-and-promotion-major/>

Career Development Department, Medaille Hall • 314-889-4516 • www.fontbonne.edu/career