The department of English and communication offers majors leading to the bachelor of arts degree in communication studies, strategic communication, literary studies, English for secondary certification, and professional writing; minors in communication studies, strategic communication, literary studies, professional writing, and English (for middle school education majors only); courses in foreign languages; and American English and Intensive English programs for international students.

The communication studies major provides broad theoretical understanding of the ways in which humans construct meaning and relate to one another as well as practical communication skills for creating effective messages, solving problems, and making ethical decisions. The major provides a foundation for pursuing careers in a variety of areas including corporate, non-profit, and civic communication management, media relations, human resources, and training and development as well as a foundation for graduate study in communication and other fields.

The strategic communication major provides focused theoretical understanding of and practical skills in ethical and effective messaging geared toward goals like influencing behavior, building or repairing an image, and effecting social change. The major provides a foundation for pursuing careers in a variety of areas including public relations, advertising, political communication, media strategy, and public advocacy.

The literary studies major, which emphasizes in-depth study of literature including critical analysis and exploration of literary theory and history, preserves the traditions of the liberal arts while providing a foundation to support a range of professional pursuits. A major in literary studies is excellent preparation for graduate study in the humanities or for careers in communication, business, law, and government, among other fields.

The professional writing major blends theoretical study of effective written communication with practical application of writing skills to a variety of professional contexts. Students develop a well-rounded understanding of the production of professional-quality written materials for the digital age, with the opportunity to explore particular areas of interest such as creative writing, journalism, institutional communication, advocacy and outreach, or online writing.

The major in English for secondary certification enriches state-required teacher preparation with innovative courses focused on language and literature that are specifically tailored to the needs of high school teachers. Students are advised and mentored through a collaborative process that includes faculty in both the English and Communication and Education departments, reflecting a dual focus on classroom content and practice.

ADVANCE PLACEMENT/CREDIT BY EXAMINATION

Advanced Placement

An entering student who scores four or five on the Advanced Placement (AP) Test will receive equivalent placement and college credit equivalent to one or two courses, ordinarily ENG 101 and/or ENG 120. The amount of credit and the specific courses for which credit will be given depend upon the quality of work demonstrated on the AP test and on the nature of the high school course.

CLEP Examination in English

Students who take the general exam and receive a passing score (following the American Council of Education recommendation) will earn three credit hours for ENG 101. Some credit may be awarded on the CLEP literature exams.

FOREIGN LANGUAGE STUDY AT THE UNIVERSITY COLLEGE, WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY IN ST. LOUIS

Students who pursue foreign language studies combine the study of the cultures and traditions of other nations with a developing facility for communicating ideas through the functional use of a foreign language.

Fontbonne students may study foreign languages through a special arrangement with the University College of Washington University in St. Louis. Credits earned for foreign language through the University College count as home credit for Fontbonne students.

For information contact the Registrar's Office.

AMERICAN ENGLISH PROGRAM

Courses in American English or intensive English are offered as needed. American English (AEN) courses support international students enrolled in specific degree programs at Fontbonne University, while intensive English (IEP) courses offer specialized instruction to students learning English as a second language. For purposes of placement, the student will be required to take the ACCUPLACER ESL Test.

Courses in American English (listed at the end of the course section) and intensive English follow a separate fee schedule.

For information, please contact the director of English as a second language at 314.719.8058.

INTENSIVE ENGLISH PROGRAM

The Intensive English Program is designed for non-native speakers of English. The purpose of the program is to help students improve their English language proficiency to a level of competence necessary to function and succeed at Fontbonne and other American universities.

Courses are offered at four levels, low intermediate to advanced, and consist of 20 hours of classroom instruction in English per week. Classes are small, usually 6 to 12 students. Depending on the number of students enrolled in the program, two proficiency levels may be combined.

Placement is determined by the ACCUPLACER ESL Test administered during the first class to determine which level is appropriate for the student. A TOEFL Test score will also be considered.

CONDITIONAL ADMISSION

Based on the score achieved on either of the above tests, students may receive Conditional Admission. This allows non-native speakers of English to enroll in Fontbonne as full-time undergraduate students for 12 credit hours. Students take one or more regular college courses with U.S. students and attend ESL courses to support them in the transition to full-time academic work.

COURSES

COMMUNICATION STUDIES COURSES

COM 101 Communication in Everyday Life (3 credits)

In this introductory course, students will learn about core concepts and contexts of study in the field of Communication, critically consider the role of communication in their everyday lives, and develop and deliver formal speeches. Topics covered include communication in personal relationships, communication in the workplace, mediated communication, and informative and persuasive speaking. FA, SP, SU

COM 102 Public Speaking (3 credits)

Acquaints the student with a sound approach to the preparation and delivery of informative and persuasive speeches. Students will study the fundamentals of organization, outlining, and supporting materials and apply these principles in the planning and delivery of several speeches before the class. Open to all students. FA, SP

COM 208 Digital Publications Workshop (1-3 credits)

Hands-on experience conceiving, producing, and editing content for digital publication. With a foundation in traditional journalistic and editorial skills and practices, this course also explores new publication formats, cycles, and structures within an increasingly “converged” media landscape. FA, SP

COM 230 Gender Communication (3 credits)

Explores the relationship between human communication and issues of gender. Students will be encouraged to think seriously about how society defines gender and what that means for us on a personal level. Specific applications will include the family, the workplace, and relationships. The course will culminate with an individual project tailored to the student’s interest in gender communication. Even SP

COM 240 Intercultural Communication (3 credits)

Focuses on communication that occurs between individuals who come from different cultural backgrounds. Students will be presented with a model for intercultural communication, which will serve as a theoretical foundation for the course. Particular emphasis will be placed on the understanding of cultural differences in an attempt to reduce communication barriers. SP

COM 260 Media, Technology, and Culture (3 credits)

An introduction to theory and research focused on traditional and new media and communication technologies. Students will take a critical look at how media, technology and culture impact one another by exploring topics that can include media ideology and representation, media influence, globalization, digital divides, and new media activism. FA

COM 280 Social Media Communication (3 credits)

A theoretical and practical study of social media communication with a focus on current platforms such as YouTube, Facebook, and Twitter. Students will come to learn about and critically evaluate the role of social media in various communication contexts that may include relationships, politics, public relations, and journalism. Students will also practice employing social media communication toward specific goals. Even SP

COM 295 Persuasion (3 credits)

This course will introduce students to persuasion theory and research. Students will examine the psychology behind persuasion, the ethics of persuasion, persuasive strategies and appeals, and how persuasion operates in a variety of contexts. During Presidential election years, this course may be offered as Political Persuasion. FA

COM 299 Message Analysis Strategies (3 credits)

In this course students will learn how to critically analyze, interpret, and evaluate rhetorical messages in public discourse as well as to construct critical arguments about them. Students will learn to use a variety of rhetorical methods and perspectives to analyze the persuasive nature of communication artifacts such as songs, movies, advertisements, speeches, photographs, and public spaces. By reading works of rhetorical criticism, engaging in class discussion, and writing and presenting critical essays, students will consider the constructed nature of public discourse in a variety of contexts. Prerequisites: ENG 101; ENG 102. SP

COM 300 Advanced Interpersonal Communication (3 credits)

Through the study of theory and research, students will take an in-depth look at interpersonal communication processes in personal relationships. Specifically, students will study relationship development, maintenance, change, and dissolution primarily in friendships, romantic relationships, and family relationships. Topics may include intimacy, rituals, conflict, violence, and social support. Odd SP

COM 340 Principles and Ethics of Strategic Communication (3 credits)

Students will be introduced to theory, research, and ethics of strategic communication practice. Students will learn how to analyze audiences, develop strategic goals, and ethically produce strategic messages for public communication campaigns in contexts such as public relations, public health, public advocacy, politics, and advertising. Prerequisites: COM 295. Odd SP

COM 350 Organizational Communication (3 credits)

Students will examine theory and research on organizational communication and consider how they relate to effective practice of communication in organizational settings as well as to the management of issues faced by organizations and workers today. Topics for this course may include organizational culture, group and team dynamics, conflict, leadership, diversity, and technology. FA

COM 360 Practicum in Strategic Communication (1-6 credits)

An opportunity for students to work on campus in a supervised practicum. Students will apply current theoretical and practical knowledge to this work setting. Additionally, students will be required to submit a daily journal, comprehensive synthesis paper, and samples of work. Prerequisites: Junior or senior status; permission of instructor; COM 340. P/NP grading option only. Note: A student must work 40 hours per credit hour. FA, SP, SU

COM 361 Practicum in Communication (1-6 credits)

An opportunity for students to work on campus in a supervised practicum outside of the field of public relations. Students will apply current theoretical and practical knowledge to this work setting. Additionally, students will be required to submit a daily journal, comprehensive synthesis paper, and samples of work. Prerequisites: Junior or senior status and permission of instructor. P/NP grading option only. Note: A student must work 40 hours per credit hour. FA, SP, SU

COM 371 Advanced Professional Speaking (3 credits)

This course is designed to help students hone their oral communication skills for professional purposes. Students will learn strategies for professional communication in various contexts such as presenting data, pitching proposals, leading meetings, and interviewing. Students will develop speeches and presentations typical in their respective fields, learn to communicate clearly, creatively, and confidently, and practice using technology to enhance professional speaking. Prerequisite: COM 101 or 102. FA

COM 390 Research Strategies in Communication (3 credits)

This course surveys various research methodologies and analytic strategies. Students will learn about and practice using qualitative and quantitative tools for communication inquiry which may include surveys, focus groups, interviews, web analytics, and discourse analysis. Students will learn how to best answer particular research questions that might arise in academic or professional settings in order to contribute to knowledge in the field, solve a problem, or inform communication strategy. Prerequisite: Junior status. FA

COM 430 Argumentation, Advocacy, and Debate (3 credits)

A study of the various formats and strategies of argument and their application to advocacy and debate. Students will consider how argumentation functions in the public sphere, particularly in public policy and advocacy. Students will develop argumentation skills through critique, writing, and classroom debate presentation. SP

COM 450 Internship in Strategic Communication (1-6 credits)

A supervised off-campus internship providing the student with the opportunity to apply communication theory and skills in a work setting. ESL 061 Beginning Reading for Non-Native Speakers of English (3 credits)

This course provides practice in using various reading strategies to improve reading proficiency in English. Students will develop their ability to read descriptive, narrative and non-fictional materials more fluently. Students will use scanning and skimming skills, expand vocabulary, identify main ideas, and comprehend specific facts and inferences.

ESL 062 Beginning Writing for Non-Native Speakers of English (3 credits)

This course prepares students to produce sentence and paragraph structures. They will be able to produce a composition with a short introduction, five or more sentence body and a short conclusion.

ESL 063 Beginning Listening for Non-Native Speakers of English (4 credits) [3 hour class + 1 hour listening lab]

This course will familiarize the learner with some of the major rhetorical patterns of formal spoken English and will develop the basic skills necessary to understand spoken English at a normal pace.

ESL 064 Beginning Speaking for Non-Native Speakers of English (3 credits)

Students develop classroom communication skills and conversation skills. They will understand how to deliver a two-minute speech on self or country with a manuscript.

ESL 065 Beginning Grammar for Non-Native Speakers of English (2 credits)

This course will review basic English grammar while providing opportunities for oral and written reinforcement. Focus will be on the simple and progressive forms of the present, past, and future tenses and modal auxiliaries.

ESL 071 Intermediate Reading for Non-Native Speakers of English (3 credits)

Students will improve and expand their reading skills, increase their vocabulary, speed and comprehension. Students will develop their ability to read materials of intermediate difficulty and complexity and develop vocabulary necessary to study independently at an academic level. Students will understand the use of transitional words as organizational discourse markers, learn to paraphrase, develop critical thinking skills, increase comprehension and reading speed, and compare and contrast cultural values.

ESL 072 Intermediate Writing for Non-Native Speakers of English (3 credits)

This course will prepare students to produce a three-paragraph composition. They will learn to generate details about a topic, become familiar with the various methods of development and will develop editing skills through multiple drafts. Students will organize ideas around a thesis statement, practice writing clear topic sentences, and gather support for topic sentences through personal experience, observation, and research.

ESL 073 Intermediate Listening for Non-Native Speakers of English (4 credits) [3 hours class + 1 hour listening lab]

Focus will be on understanding major rhetorical patterns (chronological, process, definition, classification, comparison/contrast) used in lectures across the curriculum. They will develop listening skills to understand academic lectures. Students will take notes with some accuracy on lectures delivered at a moderate pace.

ESL 074 Intermediate Speaking for Non-Native Speakers of English (3 credits)

Focus will be on organizing and delivering speeches to introduce, demonstrate, and inform. The student will use an outline form to deliver speeches three minutes in length and use language which is comprehensive with moderate effort by a native speaker.

ESL 075 Intermediate Grammar for Non-Native Speakers of English (2 credits)

This course will review simple and complex English sentence structure. The focus will be on understanding and using gerunds and infinitives, using coordinating conjunctions to connect ideas, becoming familiar with passive verbs, and using adjective, noun, and adverb clauses. Students will increase their understanding and accurate use of perfect and perfect progressive verb tenses and modal auxiliaries.

ESL 081 Advanced Reading for Non-Native Speakers of English (3 credits)

This course will enable students to read authentic texts and to function independently in an academic setting. Students will increase active and passive vocabulary, recognize patterns of organization in reading materials and be able to infer answers.

ESL 082 Advanced Writing for Non-Native Speakers of English (3 credits)

The purpose of this course is to prepare students to write a multi-source research paper. Students will learn to avoid plagiarism by paraphrasing or summarizing, understand the writing process and self-edit work for organization, coherence, development, and mechanics.

ESL 083 Advanced Listening for Non-Native Speakers of English (4 credits) [3 hour class + 1 hour listening lab]

This course will prepare the student to understand academic lectures and to take notes. They will take accurate notes from lectures spoken at normal-native delivery.

ESL 084 Advanced Speaking for Non-Native Speakers of English (3 credits)

Students will learn to communicate effectively in formal academic speaking situations. They will deliver five-minute speeches (inform, persuade) from an outline, participate in group discussions and debates, and use spoken language that is comprehensible with little effort by a native speaker.

ESL 085 Advanced Grammar for Non-Native Speakers of English (2 credits)

This course will promote the understanding of key grammatical structures while providing opportunities for oral and written reinforcement. Students will gain competence in using the passive, stative passive, gerunds and infinitives, and conditional clauses. They will use coordinating conjunctions with ease and understand parallel structure.

ESL 091 Special Topics (1 to 3 credits)

This course will include TOEFL preparation, learning additional skills in English-language conversation, understanding U.S. slang phrases and colloquial speech, social and historical aspects of the United States, and current events.
