TORNADO VICTIMS GET AID FROM ASSOCIATION

One Hundred Dollars Pledged; "Freshmen Rules" Announced; New Members Welcome.

The recent tornado gave the first order of business to the initial meeting of the College Association. By a unanimous vote of the assembling, a fund of one hundred dollars was established which, when completed, will be sent to the helpers of the Holy Souls to assist them in rebuilding their institution at 4018 Washington Blvd., which sustained heavy damages.

In the course of the meeting the organization of the Association and its relation to the Student Council was explained to the new members. Likewise an official announcement was made to the freshmen of the compulsory observance of "Freshmen Rules," compiled by the upperclassmen.

The new officers of the College Association elected May 17 are: Helen Purcell, president; Dorothy Joyce, vice-president; Mary Louise McPartlin, secretary; Corinne Dewes, treasurer.

COLLEGE'S FIFTH YEAR OPENS AUSPICIOUSLY

New Dean and Five New Faculty Members Greet Students; New Courses Popular.

The scholastic "new year" of 1927-28, commenced Sept. 19. Sister Mary Lucia, Ph.D., as dean of the College and head of the department of history, received the students of whom a record-breaking number were new ones, the freshmen alone exceeding the half-hundred mark. Sister Lucia succeeds Sister Marcella, who has gone to St. Teresa Junior College, Kansas City, Mo., as superior.

New members of the faculty who assumed their duties at the opening session are: Rev. Raymond Bello, S.J., religion; Sister M. Patric, Ph.D., philosophy; Mr. Custace Groening, French; Mr. Ralph B. Wagner, speech arts; Mr. G. B. Logan, Atty. business law. The department of physical training under Miss Marie Humes is offering for the first time a city in playground supervision. The new secretarial course introduced this year is proving popular; its lectures began this week.

MASS OF HOLY GHOST IS FORMAL OPENING

Fontbonne formally opened its scholastic year for 1927-28 on Wednesday morning, Sept. 28, with Mass of the Holy Ghost followed by Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament. The Rev. H.R. Sheldon, C.M., College chaplain, officiated.

As usual on all formal occasions, the students wore cap and gown, and the school banner was carried by the officers of the College Association: Helen Purcell, Dorothy Joyce, Mary Louise McPartlin, and Corinne Dewes.
Not Being Done

Last year, FAXENCRAZ offered the pertinent suggestion that anyone wishing to keep information secret put it on the bulletin board. We think we can suggest an even better way of hiding it—incorporate it into an editorial. Not, under any circumstances, does anyone ever read an editorial. It simply isn’t done. It seems that editors are necessary to the looks of a paper (something above which to hang a masthead) but as to reading them—that is quite impossible!

This attitude makes things very difficult for the editorial writer. She feels like an overly advertised actress who plays, night after night, to an empty house. Is it too much to suggest that if you tried coming to the show some night you might be mildly interested? You will find that, in a humble way, we try to support all school activities, to mirror the sunshine and shadow of life here at Fontbonne, and even to entertain and amuse you by discussing those charming things that a college girl finds interesting. Try becoming interested in all this! Disagree with it, criticize it, ridicule it! We shan’t care if only you read it!

But what’s the use? No one is going to read this anyway.

What We Shall Remember

College isn’t all calculus or chemistry. Not the least important part of it is the forming of happy friendships, the acquainting ourselves with the ideals and traditions of the college atmosphere, and most of all, the awakening of a consciousness of our unique position as Catholic college women. That is why days like College Days are so important. One such day accomplishes more, in this respect, than weeks of routine work.

Sister Marietta

Fonthonne students are in the same position as the Vincentian peasant who says: “The king is dead; long live the king!” It is with genuine pleasure and anticipation that we begin our work with the new dean, Sister Lucida, still to the old students, the halls and rooms seem lonely without the familiar figure of Sister Marietta.

Four years ago this fall, Fontbonne began her first existence with seven students and with Sister Marietta, energetic, resourceful, lovable, at the helm as dean. In this short time she not only has built a great material foundation but also has infused into it a truly great spirit. We can think of no happier fate for this school than that the memory of its first dean be kept alive and vibrant through perpetuating the traditions which she has begun.

ANN THE APPLE GIRL

Here’s the continuation of the correspondence of Ann the Apple Girl who Derby at Fontbonne. Here’s her announcement of the College of her letter to Jane, to buy Butter-and-Egg Mauv from Horsecake.

Dear Jane —

This school has got a lot of new things this year — a bunch of fresh men (only they aren’t men, they are girls!), some new professors for the law, and an announcer theyike almond; even if it does sound the same. They were more last year but now they’re a black jack tag with purple and yellow. You see there’s only one Ann and everybody calls them “Annies”.

I think we have started a carriage shop here, because I heard some fresh men talking about stating business and appearing compass — but I don’t know, maybe it’s a tall man place. Some of the girls laughed and said: “Not unless it’s for business men, this is the cafeteria.” Then another one said: “There’s Ann. She’s got to be quite tall.” Do you think that was nice? I know. Anyway, I’m not as polite as anything.

I must say to you for the last time early you sent me but she ate it all.

Yours truly,

Ann.

FAXENCRAZ

The cyclone oriented the freshmen, the tribunal rules helping to initiate them, but until the Sophs get their chance the poor Freshmen will simply have to remain beneath College Level.

Speaking thus, have the present Sophs reached those sought-for heights of cool — we just can’t repeat it.

Even on College Day one gets the creeps when she turns around and sees the lockers so near.

Now that the lockers are in the halls there isn’t much use for a hungry person to have forgotten her book.

However, the college tea-room is a great help in distinguishing the freshmen from the Academy students.

The freshman boarders have suddenly taken to looking through their doors.

Freshmen seem to find it difficult to:

Answer the phone.

Receive mail.

Recognize the dignity in upper classmen.

Find the right classrooms.

Walk upstairs.

Reach college (You know what we mean).

Len was really insulted because she wasn’t being invited to the surprise party given for her.

Endurance contests on flag poles and the like have an ancient precedent. One Spartan youth, according to Leclerc Hoor’s explanation in the history of education class, “sat on a horse for a year.”
HOCKEY NEW OFFERING ON ATHLETIC PROGRAM

The athletic season will open Thursday, Oct. 13, with field practice, if the weather permits. Swimming, basketball, tennis, track, and field work will be resumed. About 50 have signed up for hockey, a sport newly introduced at Fontbonne. Intramural games will be played as soon as the teams are selected. The freshmen and sophomores must take this course in order to satisfy the two hour requirement in gymnasium work, one hour a week in swimming, basketball, or hockey. The remaining hours will consist mainly of floor work.

ORCHESTRA TUNES UP: STRING QUARTET COMING

The Fontbonne String Orchestra, composed of eight violins, three cellos, and piano has resumed practice for the yearly functions. This year marks the beginning of a string quartet, which will be organized under the direction of Rev. Raymond Bell, S.J., director of musical activities at St. Louis University. The members of the quartet are: Louise Siebert, first violin; Florence Riddle, second violin; Rev. Raymond Bell, viola; and Florence Noble, cello. This section of the music department will devote its time to the highest type of ensemble music.

TO EXAMINE MUSICIANS

Professor Mentor Cross, of Minneapolis, Minn., who is musical director of the Sisters of St. Joseph in this section of the country, will hold the usual quarterly examinations on Thursday, Oct. 13. Mr. Cross is a noted composer, and his compositions are used exclusively in the music courses given at Fontbonne.

Saturday, Nov. 26, is the date set for a card party to be given under the auspices of the Mothers' Club in the Fine Arts building. There will be prizes for the table, and also an attendance prize. FR. O'REGAN SCORES GODLESS EDUCATION

"Men who seek knowledge without wisdom are unlocking for themselves the antechamber of death," said Rev. Jas. J. O'Regan, S.J., at the Mass of the Holy Ghost celebrated at St. Francis Xavier Church, Oct. 11, for St. Louis University and its corporate colleges, of which latter, Fontbonne is one.

Father O'Regan outlined the dangers of Godless education, saying that education should not be the end, but the means to the end. Religious education it is a task that faces the world, because "culture without religion, science without faith, and knowledge without wisdom is nothing." Education is a filling in and not a going out.

Rev. Theodore Schlab was the celebrant of the Mass, Rev. Thos. Bowens, deacon, and Rev. Charles Miller, subdeacon.

BEREAVED

Mrs. Walter J. Rutkowski, mother of Florentine Rutkowski, A.B., '27, died as a result of an automobile accident, Aug. 20, 1927. Mrs. Rutkowski was a charter member of the Fontbonne Mothers' Club. Faculty, alumni, and students of Fontbonne extend their sympathy to the family.
