Juniors Feting Seniors Tuesday at Osage Club

Toasts to Graduates To Be Some of Thrills at Noon Luncheon.

The junior class has taken June 5 as the day for its last opportunity to add one more note to the list of the much-feared seniors. Osage Club, on Big Bend road, has been selected as the setting for a luncheon which the juniors promise to make most charming and delightful.

A feature of the luncheon, if reports are correct, will be the toasting of each senior. Again it is not known who the toastmistress will be, but if every junior toasts every senior, even that would be but a small showing of the deep appreciation that the junior class feels for its senior sisters.

The class is in charge of the officers of the class who are: president, Mildred Bischoff; vice-president, Mary Kiely; secretary, Mary Aloysia Knapp; treasurer, Agnes Reilly.

Sister-Class Luncheon

The juniors have no very decided advantage over the sophomores when it comes to luncheons for the exalted seniors. In fact they are a day in advance of their superior classmates and have the additional honor of being the seniors to the honored graduates.

The sophomore-senior luncheon will be the closing event of the Font Day ceremonies and will be given at the Castilla.

Alumnae Will Receive Seniors Tuesday Night

Class Will Pledge Fidelity, Then Be Entertained in Ryan Hall.

The formal reception of the Class of '28 into the Fontbonne Alumnae will take place Tuesday evening, June 5, immediately after the faculty dinner. The seven new members will take the pledge of fidelity to the alumnae, and will then participate in the business of the meeting which will be centered around the adoption of the constitution. The officers of the alumnae are:Julie Kirk, president; Alice Beffa, vice-president; Mary Louise Moe, secretary; Mrs. John F. Fiorino, treasurer.

After the meeting a bridge party will be given in the reception rooms of Ryan Hall for the entire alumnae which is composed of the officers and the following members: Elizabeth McGarry, Frances Rokowski, Lucille Remmers and Adalyn Cavagnaro.

Program Board is Gift of Class to College

The gift of the class of '28 to its Alma Mater is the permanent bulletin board which now stands in the second floor corridor of Ryan Hall. This board contains in patent lettering a complete program of the college with hour, room, day and instructor indicated across the top.

Baccalaureate Sermon Sunday by Fr. Corecoran

Kenrick Seminary Professor Will Also Invest Seniors With Bachelor Hoods.

Commencement week will open Sunday, June 3, when Rev. Francis V. Corecoran, C. M. D., of Kenrick Seminary, will preach the baccalaureate sermon during High Mass celebrated at 10 a.m. by Rev. Maurice C. Kennedy, C. S. X., with Rev. R. F. Bellock, S. J., instructor of apologetics in the College, deacon, and Rev. W. H. Keene, C. T. L., instructor of Italian, subdeacon; Rev. H. R. Stedon, C. M., chaplain, master of ceremonies. Father Corcoran will also confer the bachelor hood on the seven members of Fontbonne's second class of graduates and in this ceremony he will be assisted by the members of the Fontbonne alumnæ.

The mass will be sung by the college choir and attended by the entire student body.

Class of 1928, Juniors for Three Years, Have Inaugurated Many Fontbonne Customs

One dozen girls enrolled at Carondelet for Fontbonne's second class in the fall of 1924. They could not be called freshmen because they were not freshmen in the strict sense of the word, but juniors, because the seniors at that time were the sophomores, which, of course, sounds paradoxical. It might be said that the members of the class of 1928 were never freshmen or sophomores, but juniors for three years, and then seniors the last year, because there was just one class more advanced than they. Mary Condon, Hermine Drew, Agnes Dunne, Eleanor Frederic, Mary Grace Heiner, Helen Murphy, Clementine Noble, Mary O'Laughlin, Helen Purcell, Mary Sherrin, Margaret Treacy, and Mary Gertrude Wulzen assembled for the first class meeting and elected Clementine Noble, president, and Hermine Drew, secretary-treasurer. Three important events marked the freshman year—the visit to new Fontbonne on Founders' Day, the Initiation, and the memorable production of "Braveheart". September, 1925, saw eight survivors of the class encircled in the new buildings of Fontbonne. Mary Gertrude Wulzen was chosen president, with Mary Condon, secretary-treasurer, Hermine Drew, vice-president, Mary Grace Heiner, Clementine Noble, Helen Purcell, and Margaret Treacy constituted the rest of the class. Inspired by the memory of their class initiation, the sophomores in turn initiated the freshmen in Fontbonne's pride and joy, the gym. In December Hermine Drew was selected the first student of Fontbonne to act as maid of honor at the St. Louis University College Prom. In the May election, Clementine Noble was chosen as one of the maids to attend the May Queen.

With the opening of school for the junior year of the class of 28, three of the original twelve remained. They were Margaret Treacy, Mary Grace Heiner, and Helen Purcell. Catharine Gans and Ann Marck, members of the 27 class, who had been absent from school a year, joined the three and thus made five who had been at Carondelet together. From St. Teresa's Junior College in Kansas City came Lenore Fass with Frances and Amelia O'Res, Visitation Junior College sent Berenice Snavely and Lucille Perry. Helen Dunlop came from Harris Teacher's College. At the election of officers for the junior year, Helen Purcell was chosen president, Lucille Perry, vice-president, and Berenice Snavely, secretary-treasurer. To this junior class was given the privilege of planning the first Junior Prom with which the first (Continued on page fifteen)
C. S. M. C. Unit Heads Are “Paladin Leaders”

Alice Igoe and Eleanor Riley May Exemplify Ritual To Crusaders.

Alice Igoe, president of the Fontbonne Unit, and Eleanor Riley of St. Joseph's Unit of the Catholic Students' Mission Crusade, have been admitted to profession in the Order of Crusade Paladins of the Round Table as the result of a national contest to promote interest and a general knowledge of missionary work.

The presidents of these units will now have the title and degree of "Paladin Leader" and are permitted to wear the Leadership Jewel of the Order at all crusade gatherings and local conference meetings. A Paladin Leader is also empowered by virtue of the statutes of the Order to exemplify the ritual of the Order to all crusaders admitted to membership.

Fontbonne Standard Flies At Field Mass

Fontbonne's banner floated in the breeze before the outdoor altar at Kemrick Seminary with the banners of other schools and colleges, when six thousand students attended the annual Field Mass of the Catholic Students' Mission Crusade.

The celebration, held to stimulate interest in Catholic Missions, took place the Sunday following Ascension Thursday. All attendants were no little repaid for their efforts in going to the Mass, the seminary being in Kirkwood, for the altar with its crucifix, candles, and flowers, protected from the sun by a great canopy in the papal colors, gold and white, was an inspiration to poet or peasant.

Archbishop Shannon presided at the Solemn Mass of which Rev. H. R. Sheldon, C. M., was one of the officers.

Seniors of Next Year Who Have Made Records From Music and Art to Basketball and Track

Class of 1932 Gets Membership of Eight

Fontbonne starts the freshman roll-call with the names of eight students who won the scholarships she offered. The winners of the four-year scholarships are: Catherine Tackaberry of St. Joseph Academy and Dorothy Coever of Rosati-Kain High School; the two-year winners are: Eleanor Riley and Marie Calvin of St. Joseph Academy, Margaret McCann of Rosati-Kain, and Edith Rich of St. Marks High School; the one-year winners are: Virginia Ruth and Mary Gaydos of Rosati-Kain.

Junior Vodvilians In Summer Engagements

The Junior Vodvil Shows are directly responsible for the good fortunes that came in the way of Loretto Hennelly and Agnes Reilly, or such is the claim of the junior class.

Loretto Hennelly is travelling with a troupe, which is a branch of the National Chataqua Association, under the direction of Mr. J. E. Gifford of the faculty of St. Louis University. Agnes Reilly will leave at the end of the month for Camp Kewaunee, outside of Denver, where she will be an instructor of dancing.
Irish Patriot's Novel
Donated by Relative

"Knocknagow" Given in Centennial Year of Charles Kickham.

The centennial year of the birth of Charles J. Kickham, Irish poet, novelist, and patriot, was marked by the presentation last month of a copy of the "Knocknagow" to Fontbonne library by Mrs. Margaret Kickham Purcell of St. Louis, who is a grand-niece of the author. The donor, better known at Fontbonne as Mrs. John A. Purcell, is the mother of Helen Purcell of this year's senior class. She has given numerous other books to Fontbonne's collection.

The book was first published in 1872, is still in demand, according to an account written for "America" recently by another of the writer's descendants. Its Fontbonne readers compare it to the Irish stories of Canon Sheehan, and enjoy it for its worth as well as in consideration of the heroic patriotism of its author.

Father Lord's Booklet
In St. Joseph Edition

Father Lord's striking little booklet, "Shall I Be a Nun?", has appeared in a new edition designed for circulation among the friends of the Sisters of St. Joseph.

It contains an appendix giving a short history of the Congregation of St. Joseph from its founding in 1875 at La Fuye in France by the saintly bishop of that diocese, Henri de Monpazier, to its present labors in the United States, where it reaches into twenty-six dioceses located in eighteen states, caring for over sixty thousand children.

To this is added an account of the novitiate life of the young aspirants to the religious state, with interesting information about their preparation for the three vows of poverty, chastity, and obedience, and about their training for their professional work. The booklet is from The Queen's Work Press, St. Louis.

Sophomore Is Sailing For Year at Sorbonne

One of Fontbonne's sophomores is to take her junior year's work at the Sorbonne. The fortunate French student is Margaret Woods, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Woods of 5730 Chamberlain Avenue, St. Louis, who will leave with her aunt, Mrs. Frank Ring, June 21, for the East, from which they will sail July 6. They will travel first in Ireland and Great Britain and then on the continent until September. At that time Miss Margaret will enter a school in Grenoble to perfect her French, in order that she may take up her studies in Paris at the Sorbonne some time in November. She will return, she insists, to pass her senior year at Fontbonne.

At 9:30 the students will assemble in the foyer of the Fine Arts Building and proceed to the campus for the usual class day exercises which include the planting of the ivy, a class prophecy by a member of the junior class; a class will by Catharine Gunn, president of the junior class, transferring of the school banner to the new president of the College Association; and lastly the awarding of all athletic trophies by the Athletic Association.

In all these ceremonies the seniors will be assisted by their sister-class, the sophomores, who will then entertain them at a luncheon at the Castilla at 1 o'clock.

Tuesday, June 5, the seniors will participate in the graduation exercises of St. Louis University, Fontbonne being one of the corporate colleges.

At 6 o'clock the seniors will be entertained by the faculty at a dinner in the guests dining room.

Sodality Convention
Is Vacation’s Work

Clare Whalen, Delegate to Meeting August 15-17
at St. Louis U.

Representatives from Fontbonne college, along with college, university, and high school students and faculty members who are to come from all over the country, will participate in the Catholic Students’ Leadership Convention under the patronage of the Sodality of Our Lady to be held at St. Louis University on August 15, 16, 17. To bring together the greatest crowd of Catholic students that have ever assembled, is the purpose of Rev. D. A. Lord, S. J., national director of the sodality, and his associates in the work.

The part Fontbonne will play in this convention is typical of all the parts she plays. The college has thrown wide its doors, offering hospitality to 80 girls from out of town who are attending the convention. A student, Clare Whalen of the sophomore class, has been selected to represent Fontbonne at the convention, with Mary Belle McCulloch acting as alternate. Other students of the college have pledged themselves to serve on the various committees. Some will conduct the delegates from the station to St. Louis U.; others will make posters, slogans, and banners; others will entertain the guests.

Father Lord, who will give a talk to the student body as an added feature of Font Day, doubtless will arouse still greater enthusiasm for the greatest cause which presents itself at the time to all Catholic students.

The audience of Fontbonne’s weekly silver screen features desire to express through the Font their appreciation of the kindness of Mr. John Marlow, of Herrin, Illinois, by whose courtesy they have enjoyed this year some of the latest and most notable cinematograph releases.

Charles Lamb, Critic
Fr. Sheldon’s Topic

That Charles Lamb does not rank high as a literary critic was the conclusion reached by Rev. H. R. Sheldon, C. M., A. M., in a discussion of that author before a class in English literature May 9. With no attempt to detract from Lamb’s notable achievements in other literary lines, Father Sheldon, who has made a special study of the author, proved that he had not the qualifications which would make his criticisms valuable.

Father Sheldon, who is chaplain to the College, is an instructor of English at St. Louis Preparatory Seminary. Much of his work in English has been done at the Catholic University.
Greatest Music Week
Brings Five Artists

Messrs. Hockenlum, Muskens, Niedrighaus, Diebels, and Lyon in Recitals.

National Music Week for the year 1928 will be recorded at Fontbonne as one of the greatest in its history of cultural entertainments. During this week of May 7 to 12 several local artists visited Fontbonne and were assisted in their programs by various members of the music department.

The opening program, Monday, May 7, was prefaced by a short explanation of the history and observance of Music Week by Leonard Bass, a member of the senior class. Following, Mr. Andrew Hockenlum, violinist, gave a delightful program of familiar classic and modern selections which was thoroughly enjoyed by the student bodies of both the college and St. Joseph's Academy.

Mr. George E. Maskens, tenor, was heard Tuesday in a recital of French, Italian, and English numbers, accompanied by Mr. William D. Diebels. He was assisted by Louise Siebert, a student of the violin department.

Thursday afternoon of Music Week Mr. Wallace C. Niedrighaus, baritone, gave a program of numbers from modern composers. He was accompanied by Mr. Tyrie W. Lyon.

Thursday evening, Mary Cecelia Robinson, a student of the piano department and a sophomore in the College, appeared in a graduation recital. She presented a very well balanced program of works by Mendelssohn, Schubert, Schumann, Chopin, Debussy, Rachmaninoff, Arensky, and MacDowell, and merited fully the favorable comment on the artistic triumph she achieved. She was assisted by Florence Noblo, violinist.

Fontbonne Surprises Englishwoman Visitor

"Americans of all ranks are accustomed to niceties," said Miss Dorothy Bucknell, a native of Bristol, England, while visiting Fontbonne May 8. In thus calling attention to a less lovely side of life in Europe with its architectural and art treasures and traditions, Miss Bucknell did not dampen the ardor of Fontbonne students for European travel, for she was quick to stress the advantages of other orders which are found in her native England.

"So beautiful a school as yours," she declared, "makes me wish myself a schoolgirl again!"

Miss Bucknell is the sister of Cyril Amblinger, double bass.

The Fontbonne String Orchestra Ends Season of Successes

The Fontbonne String Orchestra will bring to a close its most successful season tonight at the performance of "As You Like It," when it will furnish selections during the intermissions.

The orchestra has been in great demand during the past few months. Their last engagement was May 24, when they appeared on the program at a banquet given by the School of Commerce and Finance of St. Louis University.

ONE FRIEND IS ABSENT

There is a dark shadow cast over the happy light of commencement for the student body, for the faculty, but most of all for the class of 1928. This shadow is caused by Mother Irene's inability to attend the week's festivities because of an illness which will keep her for some weeks in St. Joseph's Hospital, Kansas City.

For four years she has been director, teacher, friend to the present senior class. In the little and big crises which arose during their years as students of Fontbonne she has always come quickly and firmly to their assistance. Her influence has undoubtedly been a deep and far-reaching one in their lives.

And so on commencement day as the graduates receive the congratulations of their friends there will be in the heart of each one of them a loving thought for one friend who is absent.

KNIGHTS ERRANT

The members of the Fathers' Club have proved themselves true knights. For according to legend do not knights always hasten to the assistance of those who seem weak? Now for a long time around Fontbonne we have thought that the side of our college life was very weak indeed. And lo, here comes the Fathers' Club to give their support to the weak and to give to it in a very substantial manner indeed. The metamorphosis that is now going on in the athletic field is the result of this knightly spirit.

The successful tennis tournament and track meet which have been held during the last few weeks are effective examples of what a good athletic field will mean to Fontbonne. The whole student body sincerely appreciates the gallantry of our fathers. Some day, we hope, they will feel appropriately rewarded when a Fontbonne girl distinguishes herself at the Olympic games.

Faxencrass

With the many handlebar given the seniors, will it be any wonder if they fail to recognize their own dining rooms?

Only resident students get the full benefit of school closing. They close their trays and hats except for the room in anticipation of HOME.

C. D. — Will you miss your room?
M. A. K. — Not the room, but the girls in it.

Mary — Has your locker been cleared out?
Ann — I don't know, really. I left it where it was.

With a summer Font at one's disposal, one need complain of excessive heat.

Why do schoolgirls always put with "Be sure and write" when they never mean it?

If every girl kept the promises she made to friends to write them, very little time would be left to enjoy that long-looked-for vacation.

ANN THE APPLE GIRL

Dear Jake:

Everybody is packing to go, and I am packing too. I scrubbed my apple-basket inside and out and cut off all the cord where the straw was coming loose. Then I folded all my travel dress. Some are having dark dresses for their travel, but I think a real pretty one like my white made of organ goods with ruffles and tucks and ribbons is much prettier to wear when you go, cause that's what everybody does you know.

I heard someone saying in the hall the other day about keeping the fonts all summer, but I don't think they meant the fountain where the fish are cause they couldn't fill that up for the summer. I think they meant that swell paper they write here; here's me Jake. I like those people cause they treat me like a queen only they don't crown me.

Jake they are gonna have some swell affairs here next week. I went to a show last night here and the name of it was "As You Like It," but I don't know what you were supposed to like or how to like it. Sunday is a day with a long name. I can't say it for you but the bachelors' girls get something hang on 'em all full of purple and yellow satin. I liked 'em fine but I could never get one cause I ain't never gonna be a bachelor. Jake.

Well Jake, I'll see you soon. Be sure to meet me at the crossing cause I won't have much to carry—just some baskets and some papers and some flowers that I'm gonna pick for you and a suitcase. Don't forget to wear that tie I gave you for Easter.

Goodbyes, Jake.

Ann.
Winners to Get Prizes
At Meeting Font Day

The final meeting of the college Athletic Association for the year will be held Font Day, Monday, June 4. This meeting will be one of the formal ceremonies on the campus and is called to confer on members of the association awards for success in this year's contests. Among the honored students are Dolores Boedeker, winner of the tennis tournament, who will receive a large cup, and Agnes Reilly, runner-up, who gets a smaller cup. The members of the college team, Agnes Reilly, Ann Murphy, Dolores Boedeker, forwards; Corrine Dewes, Florence Noble, Bernice Sommers, guards, are to receive the standard basketball award, a three-inch silver cup mounted on a metal base. Bernice Sommers and Agnes Reilly are winners of college letters in the track and field meet.

College Team Taken
From Three Classes

While the sophomores won the basketball tournament the college team is made up of representatives from each class. This all-Pomonte team was named at the end of the season by Miss Marie Hanss, instructor in physical education. The members were chosen for their sportsmanship and their athletic ability—the forwards for the points made in match games, the guards for their ball-stopping and guarding technique.

Fathers' Club Courts
Used In Tennis Finals

Through the undaunted efforts of Pomonte Fathers' Club the south campus of the College now has three fully equipped regulation clay tennis courts. The initial appearance of Pomonte's athletes on these courts was in the semifinals of the annual tennis tournament, Thursday afternoon, May 24.

The fathers have shown extraordinary interest in the athletic activities of their daughters since the organization of the club three years ago. They equipped the gymnasium with all necessary apparatus for regular class work as well as for pleasure, and have sponsored the annual intramural basketball series in both the college and Academy.

Dolores Boedeker Is
F. C. Tennis Champion

Dolores Boedeker of the freshman class won the tennis tournament, which closed the athletic season, Friday, May 25, on the Pomonte tennis courts which have recently been completed. She defeated Agnes Reilly of the junior class taking the last two sets with the scores 6-4, 7-5. Agnes Reilly won the first set, 6-3.

The complete results of the singles matches are: Preliminaries: Dolores Boedeker defeated Bernice Sommers, 6-2, 6-1; Mildred Bischoff defeated Mary Louise McPartlin, 6-3, 6-0; Dorothy Joyce defeated Corrine Dewes, 6-2, 6-4; Agnes Reilly defeated Cecile Hoerr, 6-0, 6-9; Vita Viviano defeated Mary Fleming, 6-2, 6-3; Agnes Collins won from Florence Rudolfi, by default; Mildred Bischoff defeated Dorothy Joyce, 6-2, 6-3; Agnes Reilly defeated Vita Viviano, 6-2, 6-1; Ann Murphy defeated Agnes Collins, 6-0, 6-0.

The winner will be presented a silver cup and the runner-up a miniature of the champion's award.
Sunken Garden and Silvan Surroundings Materializing Rapidly

The excavating of the sunken garden is being completed Saturday, June 2. This garden, located between the administration building and the athletic field, is to be surrounded by a double terrace on the south and west sides and a single terrace on the north and east sides. Flowers, shrubs and evergreens will center around a large urn, in the middle of the garden. A walk will be made around the top of the terrace and four trellises, covered with roses and honeysuckles will be arranged 100 feet apart extending from the south driveway to the edge of the athletic field.

The sunken garden is just one of the year's campus improvements. Trees—oaks, maples, sycamores, spruces, and many others—have been put out on various parts of the grounds, more than one hundred, and five hundred pieces of shrubbery of numerous kinds have been planted. A nursery for young trees and plants has been laid out in the rear of the service building. These plants are in great part gifts of interested friends of the College.

JUDGE JOHN P. MCGOORTY

Hon. John Patrick McGoorty, LL. B., this year's commencement speaker, is well known to students of Fontbonne as the father of Elizabeth McGoorty, of the freshman class, and uncle of Mary Louise McPartin of the sophomores. On a visit to the College during Education Week he addressed a group of students of history, a branch in which he is very much interested, being a member of the American Historical Society, the Illinois Historical Society, and also an association recently organized in Chicago for medieval research. His great enthusiasm is for historical questions that touch the Church, and he is known in Catholic circles in Chicago and the East as an exponent of the Catholic position in social and economic questions.

Judge McGoorty presides at one of the criminal benches of the Superior Court of Cook County, Illinois, having been transferred about a year ago at his own request from a divorce court as he found the conduct of divorce cases more unpleasant than that of criminal cases. He was featured a week or two ago by a national press service as having convicted a Chicago gunman whose associates issued threats that made it necessary for five Chicago policemen to guard the McGoorty home. The judge has made a special study of English justice, and he has advocated loudly the adoption of many practices in which English procedure is superior to that of this country, for instance in the rapid way in which justice is administered and the little publicity that is given to court cases.

The judge has served on the faculty of Loyola University as lecturer in the Law Department, his specialty being negotiable instruments. He has been a member of the Illinois House and Representatives and was in 1908 a candidate for nomination as governor of Illinois.

War Work of J. D. Ryan
Ryan Hall Benefactor

Mr. John D. Ryan, benefactor of Fontbonne for whom Ryan Hall is named, is featured in one of the late encyclopedias, "The Source Book," his picture appearing in the section devoted to the World War. He is named as "a prominent business man who responded to the appeal of the government in the trying days of war... He was appointed head of the Aircraft Production Board. Airplanes were rapidly becoming the deciding factor in the war. This shows the importance of Mr. Ryan's work." Mr. Ryan was the Second Assistant Secretary of War and Director of the Air Service.

Mr. Ryan is the brother of Reverend Mother Agnes Gonzaga, who governed the Congregation of St. Joseph from 1908 to 1917, the year of her death, and during this time Fontbonne was planned and the property for it purchased. Her portrait is present at the dedication ceremonies October 15, 1927.

Mr. Ryan has been identified with the development of natural resources in Michigan, where he was born in 1864, and in Montana. His residence and offices are in New York City.

Fontbonne's Musicians
Before the Microphone

Mary Cecilia Robinson

Mary Cecilia Robinson, who may justly claim to be the leading pianist of the college, gave her Music Week recital over WEW on May 24. "Celah," as those who are favored may call her, is well accustomed to "do her stuff" before the microphone, since she has given before this a number of programs over the radio. Alice Lipe, who is also a lead but in the vocal field, broadcast twice recently over WIL. She, too, assumes the easy position of one who is accustomed to be before the audience of the air.

M. William Theodore Diebels, organist of the St. Louis Cathedral and director of the boys' choir, gave an organ recital on Friday morning, May 11, at 11 a.m. Among the numbers on his program were "Pentecost" and "Longing," two of his own compositions. Mr. Diebels was assisted by Miss Florence Bultkowski, soprano, and Louise Siebert, violinist. Mr. Diebels is the father.

The senior class was honored on February 1. The junior president led the promenade, followed by the president of the senior class, Alice Beffa.

In the ceremony of the hands on the first --Bacchus-- Day, the juniors assisted the bachelors, and on the first --Prom-- Day, the graduates, who had been in breaking the ground of the president of the first freshman class, Catharine Quinn, to the president of the senior class, Alice Beffa, who then presented it to the president of the juniors. The College Association banner was presented by the retiring president, Elizabeth McGarrigle, to the newly-elected president, Helen Purcell.

Seven seniors returned in the fall of 1927; Catharine Quinn was chosen president, Mary Grace Heiner, vice-president, and Lucille Perry, secretary-treasurer, while the other members of the class were Lenore Egan, Helen Purcell, Bernice Slesinger, and Margaret Treacy. THE FONT

Other bridges, portion, and teams marked a season that reached its climax in the brilliant Junior Prom on February 11 when the seniors were honored by the faithful and faithful juniors.

May Day with Mary Grace Heiner as Queen, and Lucille Perry as one of the maids of honor, opened the commencement season which the "almost grads" are approaching joyfully, yet regretfully, realizing that all too soon there will be less happy days also will be merely "history."

Coins Were Newspapers
For Rome of Hadrian

"Coins served as newspapers in the days of the Roman emperors," said Rev. Robert E. Manning, S.J., in a talk May 9 before the history and classical language departments of the College. "Hadrian, for instance, in the twenty-one years of his reign struck 1,000 varieties of denari—an average of two a week—and by picturing on the coins events of importance in his reign he gave the events a publicity much the same as our newspapers are able to give today. Incidentally, he left to students of history a most gratifying and complete record of these events."

Other interesting phases of numismatics, or the study of coins, including its bearing on the investigation of history, mythology, art, and literature were brought out by Father Manning. The lecturer, who is attached to St. Louis University, is an enthusiastic member of the Numismatics Society of St. Louis. Sister Anna Mechtilde, of the classical language department of Fontbonne, has already a number of valuable coins, the nucleus of a collection she intends to have for the use of students of the classical times.

Former S. J. A. Instructor
Now Indian Missionary

Sister Mary Oswald, who until February was of the staff of St. Joseph's Academy, has been assigned to the historic mission of San Xavier del Bac, outside Tucson, Arizona. Her work there will be with the Papago Indians, for whom the Sisters of St. Joseph have been caring since 1873.

The mission is said to date back to 1692. At the time of the arrival of the Sisters, the Indians were in the first stages of civilization, but since that day they have learned to wear clothing, plant crops, use sewing machines, and take on most of the manners of their white brethren, and by the presence of the Sisters on their reservation they have been saved from many of the vices of civilization.

Sister Oswald has already sent requests to her friends in St. Louis for discarded clothing and other articles useful to large and small Papagoes.

One bright morning last May, Fontbonne received as visitors a queen and her retinue. The excited visitors were a queen bee and her horde who swarmed on a silver maple tree on the campus west of the chapel building.

Fontbonne scientists welcomed this opportunity to discover the secrets of the bee family and provided for the visitors a permanent home. Others less scientifically inclined look forward to honey with their pancakes next winter.
