IRISH BARD PLEASES
IN SONGS AND POEMS

Cathal O’Byrne Is Assembly Speaker
December 13

“I never hope to understand Carl Sandburg’s life is too short for me to try,” was the answer of Mr. Cathal O’Byrne to a representative of The Font, who inquired of this typically Irish bard his opinion of some of America’s poets. Not that Mr.
O’Byrne depreciates things American; his “Mary Kate” letters in “America” attest to the contrary, and details from one of them which is not yet published were among the charmimg compliments he paid the people of the United States.

Mr. O’Byrne, whose first name by the way he pronounces in true Gaelic style with a silent “t” had given at the weekly assembly Thursday, December 13, a program of Irish folksongs and ballads, some of them as old as Christian Ireland. He read at the close of his program some verses from his volume, “The Grey Feet of the Wind”, which by their wit and poignancy drew unusual applause from the students.

Sophomores’ Dance
Opens Social Season

Fontbonne’s social season opened Thanksgiving Week with an informal dance at which the sophomores were the hostesses to the student body and alumnae members.

The committees which aranged the dance were: invitations, Leon Hall; decorations, Margaret Watson; Grace Carroll;
orchestra, Marie Antoinette Grover, Emily Stephens, and Mary Fleming.

Conclave Holds Solution
to Mystery of Prom Maid

Who will she be? By order of the conclave of St. Louis University, a committee of its members will record the election returns from the corporate colleges for the maids of honor for the annual Election prom, and Fontbonne will be notified at a later date of the results of its election held last Friday.

The nominees voted on by the Association are: Ann Murphy, Mary Cecilia Robinson, Teresa Serafini, and Loreto Hennelly. Last year’s maid from Fontbonne, Agnes Collins of the senior class, is the reign-

SODALISTS ENROLLED
AT CLOSE OF RETREAT

Rev. Wm. A. Padberg, Conducted Annual Exercises

The Sodality of the Blessed Virgin held a reception for new members Friday evening, December 7, Rev. R. H. Sheldon, C. M. A.M., chaplain, officiating. After the reception the old members formally renewed their act of consecration. This ceremony made an impressive closing to the annual retreat, which was conducted December 5 to 8 by Rev. William A.
Padberg, S. J., professor of classical languages at the Jo-suit Seminary, Florissant, Mo.

This year the sodality has

Agnes Gonzaga Club
New Education Plan

The students of the Department of Education organized on Thursday, December 13, a club for the purpose of dis-ussing the problems of the educational circles of today.

The members of the club chose as the name of their organization, “The Agnes Gonzaga Educational Club,” in honor of Mother Agnes Gonzaga Ryan, until 1916 superior-general of the Sisters of St. Joseph.

This club will meet twice a month, having as its guest at one of these assemblies a prominent educator or professor of education. The officers of the organization are: honorary president, Rev. William S.
McGucken, S. J., dean of the School of Education of St. Louis University; president, Mary Fleming; secretary, Elizabeth Pepperling; treasurer, Helen Stanton; librarian, Dorothy Gorman.

To its readers and to all the friends of Fontbonne
The Font extends hearty wishes for a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.
WHAT PRICE FONT?

When the management of the Font decided this vacation to issue a Summer Font, it was the intention that the Summer Font take the place of the school-year Font. However, the Summer Font instead of reconditioing its readers to its replacing the usual Font, seems only to have sharpened their desire for the old-established Font, and after withstanding for two months the cry, "When will the Font come out?" the occupants of the fourth-floor office have finally weakened and again present the tradition news-sheet. A supplement (not the rotogravure) gives gentle reminder of the activities of the first two months of the scholastic year. It looks like forty years for us, too.

"A TIE FOR DAD, AND—"

You've a tie bought for Dad, a muffler for Bud, a tea set for Mother, and a pair of gloves for Uncle Joe, and you will have more gifts to buy. In all your spirit of generosity have you forgotten to head your list with the Christ Child? Have you forgotten in your frenzy to "do your Christmas shopping early" the real meaning of it all? Have you commercialized Christmas to such a degree that you are not looking forward to the biggest gift of all—the giving of your heart to the New Born Babe on His birthday morn?

Only four more "shopping" days are left.

Classes will be dismissed for the Christmas vacation after the last period Wednesday afternoon, December 19, and will be resumed with the 8 o'clock period Tuesday morning, January 8.

Mothers Allotting Funds From Their Big Bazaar

A gift of $100 for the library is to be given by the Mothers of Fontbonne College from the proceeds of a bazaar of December 1. The total amount made is $5.50, of which $80 is to be used as final payment on the presents which gift of the school to the chapel.

The strenuous work that was necessary to bring such success to the club was carried on by dozens of the members under the following chairmen: Mrs. E. F. Gun, general chairman; Mrs. T. A. Hanlon, cards; Mrs. J. C. Seel, candy; Mrs. L. H. Schwien, lotto; Mrs. F. J. Hageman, raffle; Mrs. K. W. Hoggard, fancy work; Mrs. G. C. Tammany, quilt; Mrs. W. J. Hartman, aprons; Mrs. O. H. Hall, surprise; Mrs. A. B. O'Flaherty, cake; Mrs. E. B. Riley, decorations.

Eleanor Riley Elected to C. S. M. C. Board

Eleanor Riley, Fontbonne freshman, was elected to the executive board of the St. Louis Conference of the Catholic Students Mission Crusade at a meeting at St. Louis University Sunday, December 16. Miss Riley is to represent the women's colleges of the city this year, serving on the board for the girls' high schools last year.

The board is to direct the activities of the St. Louis Conference during the year and has already planned a tentative program for the first week in Lent when it is hoped that the speaker will be the Rev. Fr. A. T. Hall, National Director of the Crusade, who will reach this country in January after a year's absence in Rome and foreign mission fields.

Visitor From St. Paul

Miss Marion Devoy, a senior at St. Catherine's College, St. Paul, Minnesota, conducted by the Sisters of St. Joseph, was a recent visitor at Fontbonne. She stopped in St. Louis, Dec. 11, en route to Columbia, Mo., to attend the convention of the Federation of Student Associations at which she was representing her college.

ONTONENNE DAY BY DAY

With Apologies to O. O.

Poplars planted down by the power house last week. They are twenty years old and next year they'll hide the power house. Of course that's not the idea, but am I right or am I right? Alice [spelling unclear] says she was writing a sign on the bulletin board: "Last a black fountain pen," with a black fountain pen! Oh well! Mary Cecilia Robinson came early for an eight o'clock last week. She must be her husband's innovation. The sign about marry matins went up on the bulletin board that morning. Maybe I'm wrong. "The Hannibal Courant" says she doesn't do another thing all day. Popping corn in the cafeteria. That's a new wrinkle. Even these people who were always the ones of necessity come with mussed collars. And sometimes even without cuffs. Temperatures, 0 more! Fifty-four blind-eyed Fontbonne women endorse "Sky-King Hobby pins," Mary Brennan has it ever everybody for keeping the maximum amount of hair pins in her "legal" purse. Oh, you have no idea girls! Woman's crowning glory is her hair—if you get what I mean. Maybe a long hair contest or a beauty contest wouldn't be out of place. Even allowing the use of HertORIZI. Of course Bessie Riley and Teresa Sikard would have to be barred for turning professional. Did you hear what Al Smith said in his telegram to the Pope on election night? "Unhak. Al!"

For Vacation.

Sing me a song of glad school days. When the youthful laughter rings, And I'll cheer it up with a familiar smile.

For I'm tired of the "dratted" things.

J. Fleet's not worth dogging. She's already done her Xmas shopping.

Noah Booby, movie villain, has been seen in the city of St. Louis. We all thought practice made perfect.

A Guiltless Mary Dune.

She says, "I'll study while I'm home!"

Horses! Horses! Horses!

Yale has nothing on us. We have more than four "route" scholars. It is also rumored that many of the freshmen are asking Santa Claus to bring them a pony for Christmas.

Bradley "Berlin"E. M. H. S. "We've never been guilty of calling a race at school!"

May we suggest that some time in the future, Ben Webster and Orphan Annie wed and rear a truly efficient family?
Cagers Preparing For a Full Season

Basketball has begun in earnest at Fontbonne, the season promising a full schedule. Every Thursday at 7 o'clock is held a practice and practice for physical education credit and Mondays at 5 o'clock are open to those wishing to practice for team work. Each member of the winning class team will be awarded five points toward her school letter, and members chosen for the school team, ten points additional.

Swimmers Get First Call to Train for Annual Meet

The first call for swimmers comes this week along with the announcement that the annual swimming meet will be held in March. Swimmers are invited to practice at some of the many periods that are being provided for them. For a schedule of these periods they should apply to Miss Marie Hans, physical director.

Hockey Team Is Chosen After an Intense Season

Field hockey, with the facilities and ability at Fontbonne, increases in popularity each year. This year’s classes showed increased enrollment and intensified interest, closing their season November 29 with a tie game, 3-3, between the college and academy.

The following students make the college team, receiving in award points toward the school letter: Lucille McDonald, Ruth McDonald, Bernice Scoones, Holley Galleau, Tressa Sekardi, Eugenia Sale, Grace Connor, Eleanor Reynolds, Katherine Taekaberry, Virginia McGraith, and Mary Louise Crimmins.

Council Helps Santa Claus

In true Christmas spirit the Student Council, at the request of students, again this year collected canned goods for the Little Helpers of the Holy Souls of 4012 Washington boulevard. Interest in these Sisters was aroused by their losses in last year’s tornado.

Student Congregation-Choir Sings Christmas Novena

The Christmas novena, adapted by the Vincentian Fathers in the Divine Office, is being held each evening since December 1 during exposition of the Blessed Sacrament. The students’ choir is singing congregationally the music for the service. The student-congregation choir is sung during the eight number of high masses in strict liturgical style with full proper, notably the one for the closing exercises of the retreat.

The resident students as Christmas carollers made their annual round of the buildings Tuesday evening.

College Alumnae Replace Two Non-Resident Officers

The new officers were installed this fall by the Pontifical alumnae to fill the vacancies left by Miss Mary Louise Fee, former secretary, who is now teaching in Peoria, Ill., and Mrs. John Florentino, who is living in Everett, Washington. Miss Elizabeth McGarry is now treasurer and Miss Adele Cavagnero, secretary.

At its last meeting, December 2, these alumnae officers signed the formal application for membership in the L. E. C. A.

Home-Grown Poinsettias Give Christmas Color

Christmas color for Fontbonne is being supplied by at least one institution on the campus. The poinsettias, for fifty years the Christmas flower of the American nation on account of its bright-colored red bracts, is growing in all its splendor in Fontbonne’s green-house. Perfect specimens of this plant are a rare achievement, and Fontbonne’s specimens are possibly near perfect, one of them even being the pink variety which is less usually found in this country than the red.

Sisters of the science department salvaged from discarded Christmas decorations the dozen or more plants which after much experimenting and comparison with Shaw’s Garden reports and expert care they have brought to their present glory.

Mary Gaydos Gets Diploma

Mary Gaydos, student of the department of piano of Roost-Kain High School and a member of the freshman class of Fontbonne, presented her graduation program Saturday afternoon, December 8, in the Roski-Kain assembly hall. Rev. S. Tucker conferred her diploma.

Christmas Pageant
By Academy Players
Comes Next Friday

"Christmastide in Morristown England," Christmas pageant, arranged by Marie Rues Hecker, will be given Friday, December 21, by the members of the dramatic and choral clubs of the Academy.

Sodality Receives Officers
On the eve of the feast of the Immaculate Conception, the Academy sodality held its annual installation meeting. Twenty-eight students were admitted: Rev. H. R. Sheldorn, C. M. A. M., president, and Rev. Gerald A. Flood, S. J., of The Queen's Work, who was conducting the Academy retreat then in progress, spoke glowingly of the splendid purity of Mary Immaculate.

Sell Christmas Seals
The officers of the S. J. A. Alumnae, assisted by the Academy seniors, conducted a sale of Christmas seals for the benefit of the tuberculosis society at the New Grand Central Theater on December 8 and 15.

Seniors at I. F. C. A. Luncheon
Members of the senior class of the Academy attended the annual luncheon of the I. F. C. A., given at Forest Park Hotel on November 12.

Play Japanese Games
The seniors entertained the juniors November 20, with a Japanese party. The prize for the best costume was won by Anne C. Meyer, and that for the Chinese spelling contest by Rose Heil.

Help Freshmen Roast Wieners
The sophomore class entertained the incoming freshman class with a wieners roast on October 23. After the roast, which took place around a specially constructed open oven, the freshmen were entertained with children's games.

Fathers' Club Planning to Raffle an Automobile
An automobile is to be raffled by the Fathers' Club according to the decision of the members at a meeting at the home of the president, Mr. A. J. Noble, on December 11. The details of the award will be arranged at the regular meeting of the club, Thursday, December 20. The club will also elect officers at this session.

The fathers will continue this year their policy of encouraging the athletic endeavors of the students and will furnish awards as usual. Their latest gift to the students, three new tennis courts, got enthusiastic use from the faculty.

functions. Increasing its spiritual activities, it has inaugurated a daily ten-minute period at noon for the public recitation of the rosary in the chapel. The First Friday of each month is to be observed with a sodalist Mass and Holy Communion in the college chapel, after which breakfast will be served in the cafeteria. From the dues the sodalists are paying this year, for the first time, each becomes a subscriber to the sodality organ, The Queen's Work. The sodality is also sponsoring the teaching of dancing to the children of the St. Joseph Institute for the Deaf on Garrison and Franklin avenues, two members, Agnes Belley and Loretta Hennessey, being in charge of the work. Social activities will begin in January when the sodality is to give a hike.

The officers of the sodality are: prefect, Loretta Hercey; vice-prefect, Elizabeth Hobbs; secretary-treasurer, Mary Cecilia Robinson.

Miss Catherine M. Jones
Next Press Club Speaker

Miss Catherine M. Jones, former librarian of Fontbonne and contributor to various magazines and reviews, will address the Press Club shortly after the opening of classes in January. She will discuss some of the season's plays, and after her formal talk will be potted, as is usual with speakers before the club, with questions about her methods of "getting into print."

Mr. Stephen C. Tammany opened the Press Club season with his third annual talk October 25. A member of the Globe-Democrat organization, he explains to the newly-ennobled journalists the workings of a metropolitan newspaper office.

Another speaker engaged for the year is Catherine Gunn, a member of last year's senior class who specialized in journalism. Miss Gunn is now an enthusiastic copy-writer in the advertising and service department of the Post-Dispatch.

Juniors Have a Purse
A black French suede purse with amber mounting is raffled Wednesday, December 19, by the junior class. The proceeds will swell the junior treasury.

Orientation Week Has Initiation and Socials

Orientation Week, the most elaborate in the history of Fontbonne, accomplished its purpose to the fullest degree as the freshmen now feel perfectly at home in college. The socials for the evening of the first day were held in the gymnasium. The social was a success and the students enjoyed themselves thoroughly. The freshmen and sophomores spent the evening together and talked about their future plans.

New Faculty Members
New faculty members who assumed their duties this fall:
- Sister Joseph Aloisia, A. M., dean, history
- Sister M. Athanasia, A. M., chemistry
- Sister M. Florentia, A. B., librarian
- Sister M. Comody, B. S., home economics
- Sister H. Consolata, A. M., (Cantab.), history
- Sister E. Cullen, Ph. D., English
- Sister W. Gainer, A. M., English
- Sister A. Hart, secretary

Orientation Week has had a great deal of interest and enthusiasm among the students. The socials have been well attended, and the freshmen have made many new friends. The freshmen have also been very active in their classes and have shown a great deal of interest in their studies.

40 Hours Adoration for Feast of Christ, King

The Feast of Christ the King was observed at Fontbonne with 40 Hours Adoration, which opened with a High Mass celebrated by Rev. H. B. Sheldon, C. M., chaplain of the College, who also delivered the opening sermon on “Christ the Man-God in the Church.” The closing sermon on “Christ the King in the Church” was preached by Rev. J. J. O’Hara, C. M., on Sunday evening, “Christ the Conqueror” by Rev. W. J. Muhlbach, C. M., on Monday evening, “Christ the Life-Giver” by Rev. J. J. O’Hara, C. M., on Tuesday evening, “Christ the Saviour” by Rev. J. J. O’Hara, C. M., on Wednesday evening, “Christ the Light-Giver” by Rev. J. J. O’Hara, C. M., on Thursday evening, “Christ the Conqueror” by Rev. J. J. O’Hara, C. M., on Friday evening, and “Christ the Life-Giver” by Rev. J. J. O’Hara, C. M., on Saturday evening.

Fr. O’Connor Offers College Day Mass

“Because she reached the heights of intellectual power and remained in the depths of humility, St. Teresa is held up as an example of students like you.”

It is a rare thing to find great intellectuality, simplicity, but humility in the proper setting for the most remunerative mental gifts. Too often learning is accompanied by pride, snobbishness, self-sufficiency, hardness of heart, and cruelty. I need only remind you that we have met the greatest dangers to the Church, as you have seen from her history, were great scholars. The heretics were men of many types and consciences, but they possessed no degree of humility. Thus, spoke Reverend Fr. J. O’Connor, pastor of Our Lady of Loreto Church, the annual speaker of College Day, at the Holy Mass on the feast of St. Theresa.

One colorful picture suggested another in the panorama of College Day:
A hilarious morning spent in the corner, with friends and favorite foods. The many cars in the corner was followed by lunch in the cafeteria.

With the arrival of two o’clock, the heart of every student beat a little faster at the thought of visiting Carondelet, the birthplace of Fontbonne.

After a happy afternoon visiting old friends and old scenes, the students returned to the College for the banquet at which they were the guests of the faculty and the Bishop who received the activities of the day.

Mrs. B. J. Spesce New Head of St. Joseph Alumnas

At the September meeting of the St. Joseph’s Academy Alumnae Mrs. B. J. Spesce was elected president, Miss Stella B. Gillick, first vice president; Miss G. L. Daniels, second vice president; Miss Catherine Tracy, third vice president; Blanche Gillick, secretary; Grace Waldron, treasurer; Mrs. A. J. Schilling, treasurer.

Mrs. R. S. Glee, delegate to the I. P. C. A. convention held in August in Niagara, Canada, gave an account of the achievement of the federation of glee clubs and plans that the meeting moved to present a copy of her report to the Fontbonne library.

Get Me a Pianist

An informal tea on October 10 was the first gathering of the Glee Club this year. It was given from 4 to 6 in the presence of the Rev. Mr. F. Bollack, S. J., who addressed the group on the necessity of a glee club in College life.

Merrifield

Miss D. Merrifield, who has been in the College for the past three years, returned to her home in New York last week after a year of study abroad. She will be missed by all who had the pleasure of knowing her.
Italy Happy Under Mussolini—Dr. Walsh

"Mussolini is no more an influence in Italy than Mussolino," declared Dr. James J. Walsh, editor and publisher of the New York City, at Fontbonne College, November 21. "I think Mussolini is at an end. This is a splendid achievement, certainly. When we consider the power of the Grand Orient is one of the main influences in American society, and that Spanish is the main language of the United States, it is a remarkable thing."

Another service for which Catho-lism is the medium is in education. It is his belief that the crucifix be put into the schools and that they be opened to the public.

Dr. Walsh is one of the editors of the Catholic Conference and besides contributing widely to magazines has written many interesting books, including "The Thirteenth Greatest of Centuries," "What Civilization Owes to Catholic," "Education, How Old the New," and "The Pope and Science."

Fontbonne Is Featured In Its Home-Town Paper

Fontbonne's home-town paper, the Weekly Journal, Nov. 25, featured the College in a full-page article in the issue of November 21.

The article traced the history of Fontbonne, described the structure and arrangements of the buildings and curricula, and reviewed the current activities of the campus, the residence hall in the swimming pool, and two of the science laboratories.

The Watchman-Advocate feature writer summarizes Fontbonne's importance as follows: "Among this country's great nation and nationally known educational institutions few enjoy as unique an origin and as successful a development as Fontbonne College for Women, one of St. Louis County's latest and most valuable educational and structural assets."

Lecture and Program Commemorates Schubert

An illustrated lecture on the life and works of Schubert, given by Loretta Honnelly and Alice Gie, seniors, during which the entire world we know of the greatness and profundity of this great musician, was the central number of the Schubert program at Fontbonne College held November 22 in the college auditorium.

Mr. George Koster, speaker, accompanied by Mrs. Wm. Tiede, Miss Tiede, Captain Arthur F. Gies, Mr. Francis F. Gies, and Miss Cecilia Robinson, junior, contributed musical selections to the program.

Five Charming Brides From Recent Fontbonne Classes

The younger married set has given five numbers from the ranks of Fontbonne students.

Catherine Hartmann, A. B. 27, was married October 20, at High Mass in St. Rose's Church to Rev. Edward C. Steiner, a graduate of the Modern School of St. Louis University. The bride was making her wedding day at Fontbonne the first editor of this Font.

Grace Viviano, sophomore of the class of 1930, was married at High Mass in the Cathedral, October 27, to Paul P. Baer.

Elisa Visconti, of Carterville, Ill., sophomore of the class of 1929, on October 9 married the brother of Mrs. W. B. Badgett.

Says Culture Depends On Catholic College Women

"Women are the custodians of culture, as men make it possible for us to pursue culture," declared Prof. Patrick W. Thibaud, Ph. D., in an address to the student body on November 9. "As women are leaders in culture, it is essential for the culture, by women, of interest to women. Women are custodians of culture, which is the source of interest to women. Women are custodians of culture, which is the source of interest to women."

Prof. Thibaud, in col lecting from that which is of particular interest to women, there are some people who are able to express that we are facing the age of nu-

Man No Better Than Woman According to Prof. Commins

That woman is the intellectual equal of man has been abundantly proved by modern research in education, declared Prof. Williamillard Commins of the psychology department of St. Louis University, before the students of Fontbonne College Wednesday, November 7.

"All experimenting and mental testing being carried on at the present time, said Prof. Commins, "brings out the fact that there is no fundamental mental difference in the sexes. Differences, as they exist, are matters of degree, and are not differences in the absolute level of capacity. All this emphasizes the idea of the intellectual abilities of the sexes held to up until recent times."

"Although we women!" knew this a long time ago, Fontbonne women were glad to hear it from a psychologist.
