Ruth Mary Higgins Becomes New Social Secretary For F. C.

Replaces Lenadore A. Bass Who Will Become Manager Of East Side Hotel.

With the resignation of Miss Lenadore A. Bass, as a social secreta five of Fontbonne College, comes the ery of the president, Dr. M. B. Kavanaugh, that Miss Ruth Mary Higgins, 84, will be her succeeder.

Miss Bass has accepted the position of manager to take effect October 1st, of the National Catholic Community House located at 125 S. Louisa Ave., East St. Louis, Ill. This house is the principal center of social activity in that city.

She will be in charge of all the dances, parquets, and private entertainments given at the house. In addition, she will be the supervisor of the 150 young women who reside in the house. Miss Bass intends to make the house a nucleus of the Fontbonne College Alumni Club and a year will be spent in the interests of the college.

The Most Reverend Robert Allen, Bishop of St. Louis, in the honorary president of the advisory board of the Community House and Judge Manley O. Jones is the chairman.

Miss Bass received her bachelor of art degree from Fontbonne College.

Student Council Will Meet To Discuss New Amendment.

A special meeting of the Student Council will be held Monday, April 1, in 1000 Ryan Hall for the purpose of discussing an amendment to the constitution of the Student Council.

The proposed amendment would make all officers of the Student Association, members of the Student Council, which is the highest governing body in the school. The amendment, since its drafting in 1934, provides for membership in the council of the president of the association.

Promising Thespians Placed On Probation List By Club

As the result of an interesting trial held during the assembly period on November 30th, the Footlights Club has placed thirteen students on probation for membership in the club.

Twenty-five were placed on the basis of character, action, of course, and of the official club position. These students will be given another chance to prove themselves before the club.

From the offices of the Registrar the announcement of the election in the schedule of the Christmas holidays. The formal reception of the new members will take place after the conclusion of the council. Following the reception the entire sodality will attend the Franciscan College Mass, which will be celebrated by Father John Cassidy, O.F.M., and Rose Mochon. Students Enroll As Members Of Braille Transcribing Course

Lessons Given On Special Typewriter; Miss A. Ruenzi, Instructor.

Betty McMillan, senior, Clara Harder, Melva Davis, junior, and Virginia Seibert, sophomore, are members of the newly organized Braille Transcribing class. The instruction is under the direction of Miss Alice A. Ruenzi of the Missouri Commission for the Blind. Miss Ruenzi has been delegated by the Missouri normal and Recreation Commission which is sponsoring 150 student projects.

At the first class, which met last Thursday afternoon at 3:00 p.m. in Ryan Hall, the students were acquainted with the sources. The Braille system receives its name from Louis Braille, a Frenchman, who, in 1829, devised the system for the blind.

Lessons will be given for five consecutive weeks in the use and technique of the Braille method of typewriting on a specially constructed typewriter. The keyboard has six keys and is circular. A digit, arranged in a spiral fashion, forms the Braille cell. From this is formed the Braille alphabet, numeric capital sign, and numeric signs.

Students who pass the test and begin their work of actual transcription will receive a certificate for proficiency from the American National Red Cross.

"A Word To The Wise . . ."

We have all heard with considerable amusement the story of the librarian who clipped hanging books from the shelves of the library. We were constantly in pursuit of those people who persisted in taking books out. We were happy only when there was not a single book missing from the shelves.

All of us would admit the first step to the discovery of a missing book is to check the rule of the library that certain books must not be removed. This rule has been strictly enforced. Sometimes, these books in the reserved shelf disappear before they can be read. Once in a while, the one or two books are replaced. Both incidents exhibit a serious lack of cooperation and a rather cavalier attitude toward the property of the school.

Those in charge of the library have been given an important assignment to students to carry out these rules of library regulations. It becomes evident that if things like this go on, we will have to revert to the chained-book system used in the Middle Ages.

Green Hydra in Captivity

There is great excitement in the biology laboratory this month when Sister M. Louise, head of the department, discovered a green Hydra in a culture. To anyone acquainted with scientific phenomena, this may seem a matter of minor importance, but it caused much comment and aroused a great deal of interest in the biology laboratory.

The first Hydra mentioned in history is the one attached to the Galapagos Islands. It had gone unheard, and as soon as it was cut off, two other took its place. The ordinary hydra, on the other hand, possesses a means of regeneration in the modified form. It is a question of a fresh-water pond. The most common species are the yellow or brown. The Hydra by which the light is produced is in such a state in the light that it is produced. It is a vivid green, to which it is the ordinary type. Hydrons are quite small but after one has become familiar with their appearance, one will find them every time and in all places, even in the most remote places without the use of a microscope. A Hydra has been described as resembling a "short piece of string with one end frayed out".

and this description is a good one if the reader is in need of a small bit of string to pick up. The frayed ends make objects of which radiate from the mouth of the animal at the moment of the animal. When the Hydra, as we know it, was formed in a pond, it was not a pond, but a small body of water. It is a small pond, it is a pond, it is a pond, it is a pond, but a pond, and it is a pond, and it is a pond, and it is a pond.
Unusual Decorations Provide Spectacular Background For Dance: Rythmic Music Adds To Elaborate Setting

The new fall production of a few weeks ago by Jane Hoffman, chairman of the Student Council, was realized Friday evening in one of the most successful dances given at Fontbonne. The novelty of the decorations for which the St. Louis Journal of Commerce wrote: "A Kiss In The Dark," was from the musical comedy, "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," and "Sing In My Heart" from "The Student Prince," to carry the pretensions.

New Rules and Regulations
To Be Observed In Library

To our Fontbonnian students, so devoted to their studies, we have a few changes to announce.

1. The library doors are provided with locks for use at all times. If you lock yourself out, you must use the key or find someone else to let you in.

2. The reserve shelf for library books is to be used only for books that have been locked out. If you do not return these books on time, you will be assessed a fine.

3. The newsstands are to be used only for newspapers and magazines. If you do not return these items on time, you will be assessed a fine.

Active members of the Delta Phi Epsilon in the Phi Theta Kappa, and the Beta Alpha Pi in the National Catholic Women's Auxiliary, have been designated as members. Sigma Delta Mu, Eta Kappa Kappa, Phi Sigma, and Phi Eta Mu are the various organizations represented in the library. The instructions received for this were signed by the students.

Mission Crusade Announces Two Important Projects

The Fountaineau unit of the Catholic Student Mission Crusade announced two important projects at its meeting last week. The first is the spiritual banquet to be presented December 10 to His Holiness, John J. Glennon, D.D., Archbishop of St. Louis, Mo., on the occasion of his nation’s centenary jubilee. During the loan of the banquet that week, Fountaineau students made the following offering: flowers, 45; Holy Communion, 61; visit, 157; Rosaries, 107; novenas, 783.

The second event concerns the launch of Reverend Bernard M. Hoyh-ber, F.J., to be delivered on Saturday, November 11, to the Catholic Students of the Missouri Archdio-cese, Father Howard, known as “the solid priest,” will present the latest learning adventures in the westerly winds of Alaska. Tickets sell for ten dollars, check by mail. Nov. 1, and by mail, postmarked Nov. 1, will pass their judgment on “Twinteen.”

The Sodality of Our Lady of Fountaineau College made the Jubilee Pilgrimage on Saturday, November 12, at 1:50 p.m. Arrangements were in charge of the officers. The group visited the required churches of St. Louis (New Cathedral), St. Francis Xavier Church, St. John’s Round Church, and the St. Louis (Old) Cathedral.

The college students’ pilgrimage was conducted by: Leonor Meyer, Antoinette Rie-fer, Theresa Burcina, Catherine Scott, Claire Caudron, Dorothy Cole- man, Rosary Boland, Edeline Mc- carty, Margaret Ellis, DePaula Mc- Coy, Ann O’Connell, Jane O’Connel, Catherine Burcina, Winifred Gla- wig, Paula Delpret, Mary Lou Waller, Catherine McDermott, and Elizabeth Harrison.

Ball’s Eye

A victory for the students of Fountaineau College over the archdiocese today when the archdiocese won the Foster Field Tournament, not a close but decisive. With a score of 134 points, the student manager of the archdiocese, came in first ahead of Foster Field, fresh-scratched, with a score of 160, and flanked Lake fresh-scratched, 184 points, and Evelyn House, fresh-scratched, also with a score of 144. A year old rule allows the student to wear the winner’s name on the crown.

Sodality Make Pilgrimage: Gain Jubilee Indulgence
