Glimpses... The School Of Hard Knocks

Dell Baldwin, a graduate of St. Louis University, is now operating in the motion picture, "Mr. Mike's Gamble." In return of his publicity efforts, he tested that he graduated from "The School of Hard Knocks" at St. Louis University.

How Do You Do! Did you ever happen to wonder why 20,000 people crowd two city theaters every Sunday? It is because the audience is eager to see the real life city scenes. The audience is eager to see the real life city scenes.

Leive It To The Women

Have You Written Your Brain?

I, A. N. (ACP)—Cornell University—brain-bean collection has been added to its first Japanese brains, if the resolution of Dr. Ante E. Ante, President of Cornell University, is carried out. Ante, making plans for the next year, has said that he wants his brain to be used for the study of the brain in the Cornell collection, and will come to the United States to study it in its natural position, in order to make it more available to students. Under the law in Japan, a brain under 21 years of age must be destroyed within 21 days after death. Preservation of the brain requires careful handling within two weeks after death. Cornell's brain collection has been growing for many years, and is considered a valuable collection. It is a great help to make available the brains of students.

Mandolin's Autograph Collection

Cardinal Mandolin has presented to Mandolin College a valuable autograph collection. The most and most sought-after signatures are those of the 47 signs of the Declaration of Independence. In addition to the autographs, the collection included the signatures of Sarah Bernhardt, Mark Twain, and Booth Tarkington.

A New Type Of College

Philadelphia, Pa.—(ACP)—"The University of Pennsylvania" has opened its doors to a new type of student. The new institution is called the "University of Practical Knowledge." Its purpose is to prepare students for practical work in business and industry. The courses offered include subjects such as economics, accounting, business management, and marketing.

In Football An Educational Activity

Winston-Salem, N.C.—(ACP)—The above are true of football. Winston-Salem College has introduced football as an educational activity. The headmaster, General Robert E. Lee, has asked the students to write letters to their parents telling them of the game and the activities surrounding it.

Read Before You Sign

ACP.—(ACP) : University school of journalism students garnered a positive response from city officials and editors about a new "reading test." They found that 91% would sign a petition that at least 100 citizens protest to eliminate the exams for seniors. Now the papers will add a "reading test" to their summer courses.

Sincerely Yours

Dear Professor:

It seems as if everyone is talking about trips, and so I have decided to write you about my recent tour. Where should I start? It was in New York, let me see, it was a tour with a pageant (you guessed what purpose) and it was right here on campus. My first eventful evening was March 31. The very one on which I had decided to catch up on my sleep. It seemed that I had just gotten settled when I was rudely awakened by the terrifying ring of an alarm clock. Could it possibly be time for Mass? Several alarms were ringing now; somnolent eyes up. I looked at my watch—5:30, A.M. and the alarms were continuing to ring. Some of the boarders had wanted Jay Jockey to have an "alarm" April Fool's Day and had secretly placed 15 alarm clocks among her belongings.

I case you see the trip picture taken on Ryan Hall steps and miss Rosemary McCarthy, rest assured that she wanted to have her picture taken. All students were asked to wear their favorite coats, so our proud Rosemary went around from Jockey to Jockey trying on hats. At last she wanted 15. We don't look cute in any of those hats. You won't have your picture taken.

And she didn't.

Here's another choice bit of scandal that concerns one of the "Mommon Boys" saga. Only this time it is "The Students Borrow from Boarders!" Those good-looking boys and lads that Angela Hamilton and Marie were never seeing. Thursday morning were not really theirs. I know how they would hate for this to get around, but they borrowed them from Rosemary and Kay Fray, presenting the excuse that the weather had suddenly turned cold (from 9 to 4) Monday evening and they were at school with summer coats on.

Speaking of winter, I am reminded of the "icy" Lawrence Jockey. He took his pet snowman and brought it to school on a rainy day. He had the snowman for two weeks. He had it for two weeks.

You have probably noticed how abundant in these parts brown and white shoots are on pheasant and early spring, but do you notice that there are brownish and blueish ones in the yard? And a blue and brownish, she had one on a early brown and white shoots, is a brown hat.

Well, dear, sad, stopper, my order is for a "gray" coat, and I have been about a" Maybelline" to date, and I have just put on the cotton ball (she still thinks it's nature) next time.

Yours trul y,

LY BELL
