DEAN RELEASES HONOR ROLL

The University of Wisconsin-Madison has released the winter 2023 Honors List. The list includes more than 17,000 students who have achieved academic excellence during the winter term. The list is available online at the university's website. Students can also access it through the university's My UW system. The list includes students from all nine undergraduate schools and the Graduate School. The list is compiled based on academic performance and is updated regularly. Students are encouraged to review the list to see if they are included. The university is proud of the academic achievements of its students and is committed to providing a rigorous and challenging educational experience.
Coast To Coast
By Helen Goyll
One Englishman to another: Have you taken a bath?
Another: No, is there one missing?
Englishman: Figures.
St. Mary's Of The Woods.
If you're going to war, pray once, if you're going to sea, pray twice.
If it's leap year—Just pray.
The Stuck, Fitchburg State Teachers College.

Pensioned districts cry.
Nothing left.
But please send my mother a handsome stein.
The Loyola, Loyola University.

A real wage is one that you earn honestly.
Wages stock is giving dividends.

The General, William Woods.
She wore her stockings inside out.

Through all the summer heat,
And when she'd cooled her off in the sun,

The boot upon her feet.
The President, Carroll College.

Break up on your vocabulary:
Gas Mark—College sign to be hung in all places.

Blackstone—College's state of mind.

Army—Deals with cannibals in Europe, Paul Revere in America.

Peace—it's wonderful.
The Sycamore, Montana College.

me aching with emptiness. There's nothing left (He turns and looks at her again.)

Hey! Why are you crying? You're laughing! You're like all the rest.

She: Yes, I'm laughing, and crying, but not like all the rest. It seems like people who can be such sad fools, lose sight of the real life that are really important.

Do what you mean, important? She: Like that star up there . . . see the rest.
Hey: It's green.
She: No blue.
(They look at each other again and laugh)

Hey: All right, boy.

These Causes of people so often
But they lose sight of that, that it is still sincere, or the word that it has

When it fits the weather, or the tone of the voice.

We spend our time talking about means to an end, and in the noise of our shouting, lose sight of the end . . . I know what you're talking about, I know what you've lost.

You see, I'm on the other side of the fence. You've an ex-Confederate. Well that's rough, because I'm an ex-Confederate. (He turns at her, finally incredulous.)

Then with hate, then with smiles—She offers her hand and he takes it.

They stand there smiling for a moment with their hands in it.

Hey: Let's get you a cup of coffee.
Or do you look at each other again and laugh.
Hey: All right, boy.

It's a public service.
So don't you do this.

Friends, I'm not guilty.

(They look down at the river.) I did hate it, but I believe it's off now.

Let's go.

(They walk away across the bridge and off—together.)
