Capacity Audience Hears Madame Undset Speak on Fiction Trends

Mgr. Stock Presides on Platform; Chancellor Throop Is Honor Guest

"In actual war-time, the post may produce some terror, but the articulate horror of war will not be lost, nor will his harvest, when it comes, be a harvest of victory," says Mrs. (Margaret) Undset, Norwegian novelist, a major point in her lecture on "The Influence of World Affairs on Literature." At Fontbonne College on November 6. A capacity audience crowded the little theater to hear Madame Undset, winner of the Nobel Prize for Literature, and now a refugee from Norway, speak on a subject which, as a novelist, a and a religion, she is most capable of discussing.

Comparing Nations

Madame Undset began her lecture by saying that the war has brought the idea of starting from the earlier thinking in a professional school which military hanno come. Later, when she was working in an office, after leaving the University of Munich, Professor Friedrich the Great by the girls who worked with him. This also considered an existence of violence of war, and as propagandist, the realization of all of war, was of Madame Undset's years. Napoleon and the League of Nations are the philosophy of war: Nonviolent protest for Peace.

Plants Are Perishable

"Never believe in portraits of your hero," were the words of Madame Undset, which were cited in a newspaper article from the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. From this point the novelist went on to develop the theme, which is continued on page 5, col. 3.

All-School Party Opens Holiday Season Tonight

Gifts for Poor Pay Way to Annual Frolic

Sunday evening, December 17, Santa Claus will pay his annual visit to Fontbonne, bringing down the Christmas spirit and joy and happy wishes for a happy Christmas. Appropriately gifts will be given to all the faculty members. This traditional party has become a cherished tradition at Fontbonne and is always anticipated with excitement by all the students.

Students will be identified in the party area and dismissed to the form of the party line, boys, or other Christmas gifts for the poor. These may be of food and toys, and will be distributed in the baskets to be delivered to the school, and it is hoped that these gifts will be distributed in the baskets to the boys and girls for the poor in the various parishes.

The evening program will open with the address from the President, then continue with the presentation of the Christmas Carol, "O Tannenbaum," and the traditional "Hark, The Herald Angels Sing." The last will be sung by the Fontbonne Choral Society and the group will ring the bell.

The most beautiful of the carols will be "O Tannenbaum." The group will then ring the bell, and "Hark, The Herald Angels Sing." The last will be sung by the Fontbonne Choral Society and the group will ring the bell.

Glee Club Presents Xmas Messiah Tonight

The Fontbonne College glee club of thirty voices will present the Christmas Messiah, a cantata, by George Frideric Handel, tonight, December 17, at 8:00 p.m., in the Fontbonne College auditorium.

The Christmas Messiah is taken from the first part of the oratorio, "The Messiah," and is a spectacular affair. The first is an up-to-date "O Tannenbaum," and the traditional "Hark, The Herald Angels Sing." The last will be sung by the Fontbonne Choral Society and the group will ring the bell.

The most beautiful carol will be "O Tannenbaum." The group will then ring the bell, and "Hark, The Herald Angels Sing." The last will be sung by the Fontbonne Choral Society and the group will ring the bell.

It May Happen

"Twas the night before Christmas, and all the house was filled with noise and excitement. Sally, our warm, was sitting in the kitchen, and the fireplace was crackling. Suddenly, the door opened, and in walked Mrs. Santa Claus. "I have brought you a special gift," she said. "This is a special Christmas, and it's time we celebrate it." She handed each child a gift, and the children were thrilled. Sally, the warm, was overjoyed and wrapped the gift in a special Christmas paper. "Merry Christmas, everyone," she said, "and may this Christmas bring happiness to all of you."

The historical period and the writer's own experiences are the central themes of the novel. Einar and Birgit are closely related to the characters in Ibsen's plays, and the novel is a continuation of the writer's exploration of the Norwegian people and their history. The novel is written in a rich and lyrical style, with a strong sense of place and atmosphere.

Sigrid Undset’s

American Natural Wonders, Denounces Nazis

Maurice Graf, Sigrid Undset’s biographer, has written a glowing tribute to the American author, noting her contributions to American literature and her role as a cultural ambassador. Graf describes how Undset’s work has had a lasting impact on American readers, and how her novels continue to be popular today. Graf also discusses the influence of Undset’s life and work on American literature, and how her novels have been translated into many languages. Overall, Graf’s biography is an insightful and informative examination of Undset’s life and work, and a valuable resource for anyone interested in American literature.
Eleven Seniors Practice Teaching For Certificates

54 Hours Required For State Degree

Since Mary Remington, head of the Elementary Department of Philosophy, has announced the names of the girls who are working for their state teacher's certificates, there is a sense of accomplishment among the seniors. Each senior is required to have a total of 54 hours of field experience, and the last 36 hours must be in their subject specialization. The seniors have been working with children in local schools and have had the opportunity to observe and participate in classroom activities.

There are eleven seniors who are working for their state teaching certificates: Irene Franks, Elizabeth Hinton, and Mildred Johnson from Newton's Grammar School; Ethel Fowles, Virginia Smith, and Margaret Wilson from the High School; Rachel Melton and Marion Hume from the Secondary School; and Mary Smith, Helen Johnson, and Margaret Brown from the Elementary School. They are varying in their subject specializations, but all are required to have 54 hours of field experience before they are eligible for the state certificate.

It's Christmas for Santa Claus,
Thanks to Three Curious Students

This week, three Fontbonne elementary students revealed upon research, that their first heartbreak talks with Santa Claus are their favorite days. The three students were part of the five-day Christmas department show. The site, which was attended by nearly 1,500 crowd, was filled with holiday cheer and songs, carols, and laughter. The three students were delighted by the ex-erience, having never seen Santa before.

Contest Notes

This is the time for all students to come to the end of their school

Coast to Coast

By MARY V. RICHARD

With Christmas just around the corner, the good old Santa's postcard must be quite busy now because so different people have written so very long before this year. Their letters are filled with joy and hope that he would like to know that. You have heard Mr. Claus about the gifts that you want to exchange with your relatives.

Speaking of exchanging things,
the holidays are indeed dec-
ted by that very thing.

Well, thank you for having purchased Santa's postcard and that each one of these little cards was gift from the school in your beloved family. It's nice to think of Politics for Polly

Jeans are interested in the first year of college, so most students will be graduating and will soon become uniformed before wearing jeans thicker.

And some of the members of the college heard a voice from home that was by the sound of it a familiar one. You know, Polly, this was the first time that the two major categories of theFont—from the student and the faculty—had a chance to meet.

Humility's Hope

Out of the valley of my heart.
Out of the pain of my presence.
In the shadow of the sun.
The sun of the morning.

The day is ours to share,
To show the world your love.
To show the world your hope.
To show the world your joy.

College Men Change Minds About War

Austins, Texas, December 13

The members of college men were discussing the importance of a war occurring in the United States, but clutched at the thought of the war. This is the statement of Joe Haldane, Editor of Student Opinion Review of America. The Front is one of 470 college newspapers operated in the United States.

These college men were questioned on their views and opinions. If war were to come, how many would volunteer? This is a question representing the entire male enrollment of colleges and universities. The Student Opinion Review of America is a fact that a majority of those surveyed were willing to volunteer if war were to occur.

On November 23 the F. A. A. sponsored a benefit demonstration in the gym. Three matches were played by the teams of the same side, and the new rules were worked out.

David Johnson, the featured player, played the last game of the tournament. This match was won by the Johnson team.

The exhibition was held in the gym and was followed by a display of the men of the college teams in the audience. That same evening Mr. Johnson was the main speaker in the tournament at C. S. C., and Mr. Johnson and the other players were then present in the mixed double in the campus feature. This is a fact that college men are giving opportunities to the varsity teams. The purpose of the various students is to win.

SHARPS AND PLATS

Aline Vospe and Maria Simon

Aline Vospe and Maria Simon will be the featured players. Aline Vospe played in the tournament of the National Badminton to be held December 13, 4 to 3 in the Student Administration Building. Ailt was the featured player. Aline Vospe was followed by a display of the men of the college teams in the audience. That same evening Mr. Johnson was the main speaker in the tournament at C. S. French Club Presents Mock Broadcast

The members of the Footlights Club, at their regular meeting on November 13, had a broadcast on a French Club radio station. The French Club broadcast was a part of the radio broadcast.

Later, all members, led by Aline Vospe, joined in singing songs in French. Did you know that this was the Footlights Club's first broadcast? This is a fact that college men are giving opportunities to the varsity teams. The purpose of the various students is to win.
FASHION FOIBLES, OR HOW TO SEND FATHER TO THE POOR HOUSE IN ONE EASY LESSON

By JOSEPHINE BECK

The party season is not finished yet, and you know that Father hopes to get away to New York City some time this year. If you don't know how to help him, then read on.

Father-worship is a pan-Asian phenomenon. A foreign designer is something special, and Father will find it hard to resist the temptation to go to New York City and buy some new clothes. He will probably buy something that is not suitable for his body shape or style.

There are two main types of fashion: that which is popular in the United States and that which is popular in the rest of the world. The United States fashion is usually more conservative and less avant-garde than the fashion in Europe.

In the United States, Father will probably find it hard to resist buying something from a designer who is famous in the United States but not well-known in Europe. This is because Father will not know how to judge the quality of the clothes he is buying.

In Europe, Father will probably find it hard to resist buying something from a designer who is famous in Europe but not well-known in the United States. This is because Father will not know how to judge the quality of the clothes he is buying.

KWK Features Students In Informal Discussion

Five fantastic students, from left: Will, Alex, Noah, Grace, and Emma, participated in a roundtable discussion of the future of fashion in the workplace. The students, who are all from the fashion design program, were joined by the president of the university, who led the discussion.

In the discussion, the group focused on the importance of social media in the fashion industry, with Will discussing how Instagram and Pinterest have changed the way people view fashion. Alex noted how the rise of fast fashion has made it easier for people to keep up with the latest trends.

Noah discussed how technology has changed the way fashion is designed and produced, with Grace adding that it has also made it easier for people to sell their own clothing online.

Emma highlighted the importance of sustainability in the fashion industry, with Will noting how companies like Patagonia and REI are leading the way in creating environmentally-friendly clothing.

The group also discussed the impact of social media on the fashion industry, with Grace noting how platforms like TikTok and Instagram have allowed fashion influencers to have a direct impact on what people buy.

The discussion concluded with the group agreeing that the future of fashion is bright, with technology and sustainability playing key roles in shaping the industry.
