Dear Diary: What's War?

What Is Our Responsibility
In This Crisis?
The Holy Father has expressed his views on the moral condition of the world today and has cited as the main cause of its disintegration the lack of pure religion, of man failing Christianness by attempting to shape it to his whims. As Catholics, practicing our religion freely and openly, have we not a responsibility?

Truly the task of leadership is ours, for in the reconstruction that follows this war, the new order will be equally vulnerable to good and evil forces. A just and enduring peace program does not evolve of itself, but requires for its authors individuals with admirable Christian virtues.

As members of a spiritual organization whose very nature is the embodiment of correct attitudes and actions toward one's fellow man in relation to God, Catholics possess the tools of building a new world order, based on the moral law and excluding none in its provisions. To further insure the prestige of the Catholic religion, the Holy Father urges that its members become, first, above reproach, and then the task of re-Christianizing the world will be simplified.

The Christian Victory Will Bring a Lasting Peace

We see it! We hear it! This slogan which has become a vital part of our wartime conversation can and must be put to a new use: Christ on the Cross, arms outstretched, what greater sign of Victory is there? Wear the "V" of Christ in your hearts! Appear to the Mother of Christ who gave her Son that the War of Sin would be crushed by the "V" for Victory" that hung on Calvary's hill, appeal to her to bring Peace to a fierce fighting world and bring the Victory of Calvary into the hearts of men.

Sacrifice has its place today, but don't forget prayer. A plea of hope is the power that touches the sorrowful Mother. She loves her children, and her Child loves her. She will remember her sorrowful days as she, too, sacrificed her Son for Victory; she knows the "V" she can never forget. Pray to her and ask the greatest sign of Victory, the "V" of Christ on the Cross to overshadow the annihilation of hate and rivalry, the swords of sorrow, the bullets of pain. Only this "V" for Victory can mean Peace to all men for all times.

Educational Opportunities Increase
As College Curriculum Grows

Latin, Journalism, Sociology, Art, Biology, Departments Offer New Courses

Several interesting and timely courses will be offered in the second semester curriculum. Among them will be Social Forces, a course designed to acquaint the student with the influences of society on the individual. Dr. Clemens and Miss Heezen will alternate in giving lectures. Dr. Clemens will define social forces and analyze the influence of certain human traits in shaping the individual. Miss Heezen will lecture on the effect of social forces on the pupil. The course will be a part of the regular college curriculum and those who wish to take it must apply for registration. The course will be offered this spring.

The Art Department is offering two new courses, Creative Drawing and the Pineapple. The former will be taught by Miss Heezen and the latter by Mr. Casey. Both courses will be given during the first semester and will be open to all students.

The Biology Department is offering two new courses, Comparative Vertebrates and the Pineapple. The former will be taught by Dr. Clemens and the latter by Mr. Casey. Both courses will be given during the second semester and will be open to all students.

The Sociology Department is offering a new course, Social Forces, which will be taught by Dr. Clemens. The course will be given during the first semester and will be open to all students.

LET'S TALK IT OVER!
The Morning After the Three Weeks Before!
This is our window glass.
This is our glass wall.
Outside the world is wholesalers, sellers,
the streets are marching, and round the shop
you see a mad busy crowd.
Your feet are cold, your head is hot.
You've reached home, then you turn your eyes, your hours dim, homework to do.
You're wrapped in a blanket, dreaming of infinity.
I'm glad it's back to January 3rd?

Start the Year Right!
Save Our Holidays around your bed
Last night a trip in my hat
One thing you have to remember:
Shall you have that which you want?
They whispered, did you hear? I lay awake,
Making a horrible noise
Then, I'm feeling very bad.

There are times when you're wrong
The clock strikes four, my soul is down,
They were not up to see the sun.

It's the end of the world!

We'll Let You In On It

We Know How
They say advertising managers are an evil job on the Sunday paper and when advertising men are talking in the presence of a store, they believe they are not humble.

Mrs. Brown, I'm glad to know you. I represent our college paper, published, and you, for the students and for the students. It's the best college paper in the city in the store.

I have no advertises for a very baby dollar. Not well, a half page ad in the twenty. A third line ad not two dollars. Can I interest you, you, a very small advertisement for the sale of a small advertisement for the sale of a small advertisement for the sale of a small advertisement.

Do you want to take a chance on a new? Do you want to buy a chance? Do you want to take a chance on a new?

Ah, yes, it's an awful job.

Happy Tots Enjoy Alumnae Baby Party
The world of the infant is the source of joy to parents. Parents and their babies are a joy to the parents.

The happy little group included baby guests, too.

Bill of Rights Day Observed at Assembly
The 186th anniversary of the Bill of Rights was observed by the student body on December 15, 1947. A paper was given by Miss Claribel Horner, explaining the importance of the Bill of Rights in our daily life. The assembly was led by President Mary Murphy. Following the paper, Miss Murphy read the first ten amendments to the Constitution, followed by the ten amendments to the Constitution.

Unfortunates

Forty virgins packed ladles into the hands of forty nearby families as a result of the Sodality's Saturday activities. The student body was eager to do its share in bringing Christmas joy to many who would have been deprived of it. Covered goods that were used in an admission fee to the Christmas Party were donated to this worthy cause.

A vote of thanks is extended to the student body and to Marie Blanchard, President of the Sodality, who worked so hard to make the drive attractive.
