Horse Show To Run 3 Nights

"Walk your horses, please; trot your horses, please; enter your horses."

These three statements will be heard over and over again come April 10, 11 and 12. For on these three nights at the Franklin Spring Horse Show, three nights of horse showing will take place.

The coming Horse Show is very likely to be the best ever held by Foothome College. Bigger and better things have been planned. For the first time the horse show will be presented under tents instead of on the open ground.

A new feature in this year's horse show will be the initiation of two new open classes, one for saddle horses, and the other for driving teams. Two other outstanding changes will be the school pair class, which will be open to the Riding Club students who are not in the higher classes, and the new open classes for three- and four-year-old horses. These classes will be judged on the merit of the individual horse, and not on the training or the type of riding that is required. The judges will be trained to select the best horses on the basis of their general conformation and quality.

The horse show committee are: Brenda L. Bland, chairman, George M. Bland, secretary, and Miss Mabel Bland, treasurer.

The horse show will be held on Friday, Saturday, and Sunday nights, with a special feature on Saturday night. Ticket sales will be held at the gates on each of the three nights.

The award ceremony will be held on Sunday night, with awards being presented for the best horse, the best driving team, the best saddle horse, and the best driving team in each of the open classes. The awards will be presented by the judges, and the winners will be announced in the local newspapers.

In addition to the three nights of horse showing, there will be a horse show parade on Saturday afternoon, which will feature the best of the horses shown at the horse show.

The horse show will be a great event for all horse lovers, and is sure to be a great success.
SUIT YOURSELF WITH A SUIT: Try New Color Combinations

By CLAUDIA GRECO

Now that one big worry is over . . . the gown . . . the gown . . . there’s one thing you can’t possibly pass off from your mind. And that is the suit. You have to be sure that you have the right one for you. If you don’t, it will show. A suit that is too tight will make you look fat and uninteresting. A suit that is too loose will make you look shapeless and ungainly.

Accessories Are A Must

First in our list of accessories for the spring is the coat. Let’s start at the top, the coat. This year’s coat is all about the accessories. The belt, the scarf, the hat, the gloves—each one is an important part of the outfit. The belt is a must. It’s the only way to accentuate your figure and make your suit look more tailored. The scarf is also a must. It’s a great way to add color and interest to your outfit. The hat is another important accessory. It’s a great way to add a touch of glamour and sophistication to your look. And the gloves—oh, the gloves! They’re a must for every woman these days. They’re not just for cold weather anymore. They’re for style, they’re for fashion, they’re for the perfect touch of elegance.
