PERSONALITY

Meet The Cog That Moves The Wheels Of Fontbonne

Last week the Font inaugurated a series of articles on Fontbonne personality. The feature has been carried over into the October issue and will continue in November by popular demand. Our subjects are always selected by the editorial staff as an appreciative promotion.

Every machine is run by a wheel and every wheel is made up of a number of cog. But our "the wheels of Fontbonne go round" is the senior class, Mary Ann Coughlin. A Homeschooler from Christian, senior, and captain of our yearbook staff, Mary Ann is the "Cog". As page editor, Mary Ann is the one in charge of the 'news', the "things that go on in the school that the average Joe student is not aware of.

Mary Ann is a quiet person, her face often hidden behind her glasses. She has a natural air of competence and this enables her to get her work done. Mary Ann is a "Cog".

Up-To-Date

After a fall rehearsal, last week, it was announced that one of the seniors scored the title of 'Homeschooler'. It is an excellent feat, if it is what it appears to be, a "cobweb of news around about Fontbonne", personified in, it is hoped, a readable style.

Harry Rosser, Tommy Darby, Frank Auvity and the Greeters—now known as the Greyhounds—held the house open Sunday, Nov. 10. In the dorm, dorms guests were the men of St. Louis U.; Homecoming, the student body.

Fontbonne students learned "The Art of being desired when you are not" in a lesson they delivered. The room was filled with students who were listening to the advice of the seniors. The lesson was divided into four parts: "The Art of being desired when you are not"—\(\text{Part 1:}\) "The Art of being desired when you are not"—\(\text{Part 2:}\) "The Art of being desired when you are not"—\(\text{Part 3:}\) "The Art of being desired when you are not"—\(\text{Part 4:}\)

Homecoming Stresses Comments

Homecoming is becoming a much talked-about subject, the question of the day being: What do you think about Homecoming?

Bob Higgins—"We don't have enough to do about it. It needs more college interest."

Mary Lou Coleman—"It doesn't show the girls that have any interest in the Homecoming. Should there be some thing to stimulate their interest for the girls here."

"What will you be wearing on the 49th of December?"

"Near you by most any anger or otherwise."

"Well, I still live. But who is coming?"

"Oh, the Victory is a lovely mark of modesty in our lives, and you won't be troubled with the usual snobbery of the school."

"That's a pity. I guess."

"Well, I was just wondering how the students are getting along.

"Yes, I think they are getting along quite well."

"The interesting thing is that they are getting along quite well."

Wife: "The most important thing is that the students are getting along quite well."

"Yes, yes, yes."
