Evelyn Lakebrink Presents Recital

The Meade High School will host its first music recital of the year on November 28 at 10:00 a.m. The program will feature a variety of classical and contemporary pieces performed by students of various levels. The audience is encouraged to attend and support these young musicians as they showcase their talents.

Upcoming Recitals

The future of the music program at Meade High School looks bright with a series of upcoming recitals. On December 5, the orchestra will present a winter concert, followed by the school choir on December 12. The band will conclude the season with a performance on January 9. These events promise to be highlights of the academic year, offering students the opportunity to share their musical gifts with the community.

For more information, please contact Mr. Thomas, the music department head, at 555-1234.
Faculty Attend Several Meetings

At several anti-war meetings were members of the faculty during the past few weeks.

Sister M. B. McKeever, French professor, and Sister Ann Albin, history professor, attended the sixty-ninth annual meeting of the Modern Language Association in Montreal in December. Dr. William Van Tuan spoke at several international meetings held at-to.

The MLA meetings were held at the Hester Hotel and were very well attended.

Three papers on the French literature of the 19th century were of special interest.

They were about Rimbaud, Baudelaire, and Mallarme.

The first paper by Robert Champion of Indiana University was entitled "La Peinture de Rimbaud." Professor Champion treated Rimbaud under three aspects: Rimbaud, the poet, Rimbaud, the nationalist, and Rimbaud, the Catholic. Of this new and wondrously many of them had never before been over the road through recent public actions.

The second paper on "Rimbaud's Early Style" was given by Omara A. Herr of Pennsylvania State College. Professor Herr emphasized the fact that the poet's chief aim was to impress his language on the people.

The third paper, "Les Denys de la Reine," was read by Professor Alfred Blum of the University of Wisconsin.

At the Rostock, January 18, Dr. William Van Tuan, professor of oriental literature at nationals, spoke at the luncheon of the U.S. Foreign Policy." This speech was given on January 9 at the Mission Field Service Award banquet which was held at the Plaza Hotel in Washington, D.C.

Although these truths are generally accepted, we do not need, for the most part, that individualism be considered as a way in which we can make a living. We don't need, for the most part, that the individualism be considered as a way in which we can make a living. We don't need, for the most part, that the individualism be considered as a way in which we can make a living. We don't need, for the most part, that the individualism be considered as a way in which we can make a living. We don't need, for the most part, that the individualism be considered as a way in which we can make a living. We don't need, for the most part, that the individualism be considered as a way in which we can make a living.