Baccalaureate Hoods Given Prominent Seniors Since 1938

One of the oldest traditions established by Bennett College is the awarding of the Baccalaureate Hood to the senior who is outstanding in scholarship, leadership, and service to the college. The hood is worn with the academic regalia, purple and gold, and is given to all students who achieve a certain standard of academic excellence at the commencement ceremony.

Records show that the first graduate to receive the hood was Mary M. Smith in 1933. Since then, the hood has been awarded to students who have excelled academically and have demonstrated outstanding leadership and service to the college.

Admission Will Take Bennett Family Riding on River

A boat ride down the Potomac River will be held on Saturday, June 1, as part of the school's annual regatta. The boat ride is open to all members of the Bennett family, including alumni, faculty, and staff.

For more information or to make reservations, contact the school's registrar at 54-75-82.
May Day Ceremonies For Last Time Combine Secular With Religious Aspects. Next Year Only Religious Side Will Be Emphasized

At the last meeting of the executive board of the Society of Our Lady of Mount Carmel, May Day would be exclusively religious in character. That is, there will be no street processions of the May Queen, as customarily of former years, and to-day only a few members of the executive will attend the ceremonies.

Big Sisters Will Help Orientate New Classmen

Next semester freshmen will probably know a great deal more about Phenomena than freshmen in former years because of the expansion of the Orientation Program. Visitations from all classes have already begun setting up for the task of orienting freshmen throughout the entire year.

The Big Sisters Association (BSA) is according to approved orientation procedures and is helping to eliminate much of the confusion and waste of energy brought on by the new starts of September.

Besides the regular Tag Day, workshops will be set up by various departments and offices so that the freshmen may have an opportunity to discuss with club representatives, the purpose of the club, and what they will like to participate in. New students that are interested in joining will like to participate in. New students that are interested in joining will like to participate in.

Bilthe Good Humor Often Is Thurber's Characteristic Wit

It was through the New Yorker that James Thurber revealed his first talent. Before then, many humorists got into print through Thurber's first effort, though he has been published for more than 20 years. He has written comic books, plays, a radio show, and numerous short stories. Thurber's work has appeared in The New Yorker, Harper's, and other magazines. He has also written plays, and his attempt to write a successful musical is well-known. He is known for his wit, wry humor, and often cynical view of life. Thurber's work has been collected in several volumes, including "A Bed of Straw." He has been married twice, and has two children. His work continues to be popular today, and has been adapted into films and stage productions.

Freshmen Hail End of School Year

Jerry Cupo--"Our names are yours; everybody will be back to normal soon. We are not ready; the school year has ended." But we are not ready; the school year has ended. The reasons are many and complex, but the main reason is that people are not ready to return to normal life. The end of the school year is a time of transition, a time when people need to adjust to new situations and challenges. We are not ready; the school year has ended.

Children, Comic Books, Classics

Chinook, the comic book published by the Freshman Class, is an excellent example of this trend. The comic book is a popular form of entertainment, and it has been around for many years. It is a time when people need to adjust to new situations and challenges, and this is reflected in the comic book.

Leaping the Curtain

Now that the year has ended, the students are ready to return to normal life. It is a time when people need to adjust to new situations and challenges, and this is reflected in the comic book.
