Posses In Rooms

The small photographic contest encompassed the prize-winning rooms in Medaille last week. Kathleen Fahy (334), springfield, Mo., sophomore, and Diana Lopez (212), Rock Island, Ill., freshman, Judges of the contest were Sister Eunice tran and Miss Frances Tress, professors in the art department. A brief description of each can follow:

The walls of the rooms belonging to Kathleen are light grey, on her bed in a yellow spread facing a background for two small pictures covered with a gay design. The window, the draperies of gold and white are of a shiny sheen, blending with the walls. Curtains on the windows are simply trimmed with ruffles.

Amidst the details of the room are a yellow wall flower, making the space appear filled with color. The room is very bright and cheery and just the way she likes it.

Diana's Room

The predominating color of Diana's room is chocolate. The spread and design, made by Diana's mother, Mrs. Ed- cardo Lopez, is chocolate with a design of velvet flowers in leaves in red and gold. The draperies in the living room and the window are in the same style.

Suggestions For Lent, Beginning Feb. 18

(Students' Section) The following was placed on the desk with a request that it be printed. We thank the authors, whoever they are.

1. I will be on time for all classes.
2. I will give complete and extra attention to the instructor during a lecture.
3. I will study and perform assignments at the time, place, and manner in which they are assigned.
4. I will not cheat under any circumstances, even though being honest I may obtain a lower grade.
5. I will not disturb others in the library or elsewhere in their study time.
6. I will spend less time at recreation in the subjects and more time on the scenes in the chapel.
7. I will be more respectful of curfew by prompt obedience and by refraining to "realtions" their directions away.
8. I will make a special effort to small talk of clarity in thought and word, and ask both toward myself and others.
9. I will spend more time with myself and to my duties in study and work.
10. I will in all respects try to use the manners and to my duties in study and work.
