Libraries Receive Thank-You Note

The library received a thank-you note from the students of the English Department, expressing their gratitude for the services rendered. The note reads:

"Thank you for your invaluable assistance. We appreciate your timely and efficient service. Keep up the good work!"

Susie College, Successful Coed!

Well, kids, here's Step No. 2 on how to be a success in college. (As you remember from last month, Step No. 1 was knitting Yale argyle socks.) You have to look like your classmates with money or Stil- ton cheese, but Step No. 3 is acquiring a taste for pizza! (To all Italian students or others who eat at all: Yes, some people do have to or desire to; just a fact.

First you must read at least six books about the origin and history of pizza, taking notes all the while.

Second activity lends an atmosphere of college atmosphere. OK, now we've done it to the nearest pizza place.

Above you, you must have your napkin:

Napkin: breviary for your next meal.

Also, don't forget to check the checked table cloth:

These fly- ing break crumbs can be pretty distracting. Open the menu, glance carelessly down it as though you're considering a plate. That's it. Put that cigarette away:

The better one must want to light the candle on your table. It's waiting for your order:

"Don't order more than one plate, that's too much unimagined. Wait till you've made an impression upon the waiter. People judge you by the type of plate you eat, you know.

Here comes your order:

Hey, don't , but it's not bad if it looks - really, it doesn't taste

Put that sandwich in your pocket - good for later. you know.

"Free Trade" is the title of Betty Green's contribution. Betty, a freshman from Kansas City's St. Teresa's Academy, plans to major in English.

Another: Mrs. L. R. O'Brien, who read her poem, "Kaleidoscope," accepted: Margaret, from St. Agnes High School in Springfield, Missouri, a major in sociology.

Student Poets Who Else Is Available

For the anthology of poetry written by college students, the following student poets have been selected:

- Margaret O'Brien, Major, English, St. Joseph's College, Kansas City, Missouri
- Elizabeth Green, Major, English, St. Teresa's Academy, Kansas City, Missouri

The anthology is to be published in the spring.
IRC Class Hears From Delegates On Disarmament

The International Relations Class, taught by Dr. William Van Wagenen, met in the third floor of the Lasker School Library on Monday to hear a presentation by delegates from the United Nations. The class was led by a member of the United Nations delegation, who discussed the current state of disarmament negotiations and the challenges faced by the international community in achieving a comprehensive arms control agreement.

Busy Sodalists Plan Activities

The Sodalists, a Catholic youth group, are planning a series of events for the upcoming school year. The group is working on coordinating events such as a retreat, a prayer meeting, and a service project to help the homeless. The group is also planning to invite guest speakers to discuss topics such as faith and social justice.

Advent Pageant Impresses Audience

By Dignified, Respectful Acting

On December 7, the annual Advent Program was held in the auditorium. The student body participated in the annual Advent Program. This program was not merely a spectacle but also a reflection of the religious values and principles that guide our lives.

Lecture Urges Prayers For Russians

The lecture, which focused on the importance of prayer in the face of adversity, was well received by the audience. The speaker emphasized the need for spiritual fortitude and the power of prayer in times of crisis.

The Pope Appeals to All Catholics

In an effort to address the challenges facing the Church, the Pope called on all Catholics to come together in prayer and unity. The Pope's message resonated with the faithful, who are encouraged to pray for the Church and for the world.

Ford Fund

The Ford Fund, which supports educational initiatives, has awarded grants to several projects. These grants will help fund the expansion of educational programs and facilities, benefiting students across the country.
It's Christmas Again. The World Is Once More Disarmed

This is the time of year when the world finds itself in possession of an efficient disarmament program. H-bombe, atomic shells, and guided-missile warheads are the stuff from which men live. The world is disarmed—disarmed by a small child, the God-Man, who came to earth many years ago and spent his first hours in a manger.

Why? Why, because two thousand years ago God disarmed from the weapons of Heaven, from the spectacles of the Clavius and the Saracen, and came to earth to live among men. His creatures were made by Him, and He created them with His own image and likeness, so that we might have the opportunity of living a new life.

He will come again this Christmas just as He did that first time. He will come to transform the minds and hearts of men, once lost, and purchased, and to make them free for eternity.

But, alas, there will be the same story. We are still playing the same game with our neighbors. We are still going to war for another reason. We are still going to war for something better, which somehow we never quite achieve.

Books You Will Like

A rare indication of a novel's probable success is the fact that it is made into a movie. Good movies are rare in this city, but when one is, it is about, only a little over two hours, and it is highly readable.

"The Incredible Miss Doro" was published in 1938, and her geography class for the past generation has paid the young woman's publishing bills.

The geography classroom was a reverberating room, and a rosy glow of beauty, which varied not one bit. But in this room Miss Doro was punished with popularity and was given the title of "Miss Beautiful Miss Doro" by all who had an interest in her name; she had a lifetime of these, and her heart was not known to me. (1:4, 16, 18)

How can we be sure that all these things will take place?

The Lord Himself shall give a sign. Besides a virgin shall conceive, and bear a son, and his name shall be called Emmanuel. He shall not utter and honey that He may know to refuse the evil and choose the good. (7:1, 18)

The FONT

December 35 galloping around the whole atmosphere of life rooks with Christmas. Presents must be bought, and worry about the exact price of each. ShopPING is not a luxury, but a necessity. What can we get for a friend? Are you going to say, "Buy a book?" How can you be sure that he won't read the thing? He won't know whether it is a success or not.

The scandal are revealed everywhere, and although there are many with their faces in the eye of the public, they still look very fine. The advertising agents are busy, but they don't ever have time to be discriminating. We must wait for at least one-half hour at each counter, which makes Christmas shopping three to four hours long.

We grin and shake our heads as we meet and leave with a "Merry Christmas!" that seems very important feeling when we have all the pieces wrapped and hidden, or is it really worth it all?

Once upon a time in the world was given the Greatest Gift of all. The Lord knew all who should come to His feet in the center of our own world. He sent His angels to announce this. In this connection, He is an expert on Christianity, and He does not ask about you.

Three of the boarders—CAROL SCHAUGHESNEY, MARY LEE FREIBERG, and JANET THOMPSON—would like to provide telephones in the house, and LOU ROBERTSON would like a private room. The study is occupied as a study, so that she can accept these requests. NANCY BRUSACIO would like a private telephone, and PHYLLIS GALAKATIC would like a mahogany desk. MARIAN SLECKEL would have a bed, but not in the room. FRANK WELTZEL would like a new chair. Nonna is "in" on a machine in the kitchen. ANNA PETTY would like a new chair. DONNA PREIBIS would have a new table. MARGARET QUIGLEY would like a new table, and LOU MIKEL would like a new table. MARY MOSER would like to cut all Tuesday and Thursday classes just once.
