- They will be there for two years, and they would be identified at that time.

February 11

Last week on Tuesday, February 8th, the Catholic world and the Catholic community of the Blessed Virgin at London, England, celebrated the centenary of the establishment of the Order of St. Benedict. The occasion was marked by a solemn ceremony at the Abbey Church of St. Mary, Westminster, London. The Abbey was packed with a large congregation of Benedictine monks, priests, and laymen, all gathered to witness the great event. The ceremony began with a solemn procession, led by the Abbot of Westminster and the Prior of the Abbey, followed by the clergy and laity. Then, the solemn Mass was celebrated, after which there was a solemn procession to the chapel of the Blessed Virgin, where the Blessed Virgin was venerated. The ceremony was concluded with a benediction and a distribution of the Holy Eucharist to the congregation. The whole event was a grand display of the beauty and majesty of the Catholic faith. The Abbey was adorned with decorations and flowers, and the street outside was filled with people who had come to witness the event. The celebration of the centenary of the Order of St. Benedict marked a significant milestone in the history of the Catholic Church, and it was a fitting tribute to the great work of the Benedictine monks and nuns who have dedicated their lives to the service of God and the spread of the Catholic faith.
