College Adds Honors Reading Course To Summer Curriculum

Fontbonne students last Monday were introduced to a program for the 1963 summer honors' reading course. Sponsored by the special faculty committee on honors under the chairmanship of Sister Mary Louis, of the English department, the course has as its purpose to provide background information for honors' students. It will consist of readings in literature representative of the classic, romantic, realistic, and existential types.

Students who are eligible and those who wish to take it will attend a series of five or six lectures before the end of the current school year. These lectures will aim at giving directives for the readings.

The course will cover three hours as an additional part of the 128 hours, the final total in the course will be considered in honors points; otherwise, the course will receive a grade which will not be computed with the honors point average.

Any student member of Delta Eta Pi Sigma, or one who has an honor point average of 2.5 or above, is automatically eligible.

Any student who has an average of 1.5-2.49 may make application to the committee. If registration permits, she will be allowed to take the course. The fee is $8.

In September, the examination will be given. It will be both oral and written and a number of questions will be asked. The examination will be administered. The committee hopes that this program will develop into a three-year cycle, enabling honors' students to take nine hours of general humanities enrichment.

God is Greater Love
St. Thomas says (Ihsa 8:4 a.l.) that even is preserved from the sacred sacra- ment, which a man does not frequent. The sacrament is ordained to retain the special effects which are necessary in the Christian life. For example, Baptism is necessary for the remission of sins, and the Eucharist is necessary for the forgiveness of sins. With the celebration of Holy Thursday and the institution of the Holy Eucharist, we are reminded that the Church is the Body of Christ. Christ's physical presence has been with us, and His people have been called to live according to the example of Christ. In conclusion, it is a sacrilege to offer a sacrament that is necessary for the Christian life.
